Wendland, 2010-10 Burnout is common among doctors in the West so one might assume that a medical career in Malawi one of the poorest countries in the world would place far greater strain on the idealism that drives many doctors But as A Heart for the Work makes clear Malawian medical students learn to confront poverty creatively experiencing fatigue and frustration but also joy and commitment on their way to becoming physicians The first ethnography of medical training in the global South Claire L Wendland's book is a moving and perceptive look at medicine in a world where the transnational movement of people and ideas creates both devastation and possibility Wendland a physician anthropologist conducted extensive interviews and worked in wards clinics and operating theaters alongside the student doctors whose stories she relates From the relative calm of Malawi's College of Medicine to the turbulence of training at hospitals with gravely ill patients and dramatically inadequate supplies staff and technology Wendland's work reveals the way these young doctors engage the contradictions of their circumstances shedding new light on debates about the effects of medical training the impact of traditional healing and the purposes of medicine Mapping Equity and Quality in Mathematics Education Bill Atweh, Mellony Graven, Walter Secada, Paola Valero, 2011-01-06 Concerns about quality mathematics education are often posed in terms of the types of mathematics that are worthwhile and valuable for both the student and society in general and about how to best support students so that they can develop this mathematics Concerns about equity are about who is excluded from the opportunity to develop quality mathematics within our current practices and systems and about how to remove social barriers that systematically disadvantage those students This collection of chapters summarises our learning about the achievement of both equity and quality agendas in mathematics education and to move forward the debate on their importance for the field Public Examinations Examined Thomas Kellaghan, Vincent Greaney, 2019-11-19 High stakes public examinations exert a dominant influence in most education systems They affect both teacher and student behavior especially at the middle and upper levels of secondary education The content of past examinations tends to dictate what is taught and how it is taught and more important what is learned and how it is learned

By changing aspects of these examinations especially their content and format education systems can have a strong positive impact on teacher behavior and student learning help raise student achievement levels and better prepare students for tertiary level education and for employment Examination agencies many of which have followed the same procedures over decades can learn from the successes and failures of other systems This book addresses current issues related to the development administration scoring and usage of these high stakes public examinations identifying key issues and problems related to examinations in many emerging market economies as well as in advanced economies The book's primary audience consists of public examination officials on national regional and state examination boards but the book should also be of interest to senior education policy makers concerned with certification and learning achievement standards to academics and researchers interested in educational assessment to governmental and education agencies responsible for student selection and to professionals at development organizations This extremely well written and comprehensive book offers a timely review of the diversity of public examination practices worldwide of the tensions between examinations and learning and of the technical expertise involved in the creation of valid reliable and fair assessments It reminds us that as the diploma disease takes hold with an ever greater intensity at every stage of education worldwide and the commercial business of testing flourishes those concerned with educational quality and meaningful learning must be on guard to prevent the assessment tail wagging the educational dog Angela W Little Professor Emerita Institute of Education University College London This book is very well structured and written and draws on the authors remarkable global knowledge across countries and histories It will be a great asset both to administrators responsible for examinations and to academics and other professionals who seek to understand the nature and impact of examinations of different types and in different settings Mark Bray UNESCO Chair Professor of Comparative Education University of Hong Kong and former Director UNESCO International Institute for Educational Planning I am sure that Public Examinations Examined which thoroughly analyzes the practice of public examinations in different countries and makes profound and well grounded conclusions will arouse very great interest and will serve to further improve public examinations Victor Bolotov Distinguished Professor Higher School of Economics National Research University Moscow member Russian Academy of Education and former Deputy Minister of Education Russian Federation

Contradictions in Post-war Education Policy Formulation and Application in Colonial Malawi 1945-1961 I. C. Lamba, 2010 The post World War II colonial reconstruction programmes for economic recovery and general political and social development in Malawi then known as Nyasaland necessitated increased education But the sincerity of metropolitan development plans for the colonies could only be adequately appraised through the degree of demonstrated commitment in the implementation of the announced plans This study seeks to examine chronologically the development and application of colonial education policies during the period 1945 to 1961 in Malawi The parties involved included the British Colonial Office the Nyasaland Protectorate Government and the Christian missionaries on the one hand and the European settlers Asian Coloured and African communities on the other as the target groups of the policies Devising educational policies of equitable benefit to all the racial and social groupings in Malawi posed enormous problems to the colonial administration This study examining the dynamics and course of policy contends that given the prevailing economic and political conditions non European education especially that of Africans experienced retardation in favour of European education Sometimes apparent government ineptitude combined with calculated needs for the Europeans produced under development for African education in Malawi and the country s economy In the end African education operated against the odds of missionary and government apathy This book discusses the impact on education generally of the Nyasaland Post War Development Programme the Colonial Office Commissions of 1947 1951 and 1961 and the local Committees set up to inquire into the retardation of African education in its various categories including female and Muslim in response to both local and international pressure Although considered a priority African education developed slowly contrary to the declared goal of Post War colonial policy of self determination with its potential demands for trained local manpower The argument demonstrates the tenacity of the Federal Government of Rhodesia and Nyasaland in playing down African education as a political strategy from 1953 to 1961 at the same time as it accorded a better deal to Asian and Coloured education
