Blended learning environments to foster self-directed learning Christo van der Westhuizen, Mncedisi C.

Maphalala, Roxanne Bailey, 2023-03-31 This book on blended learning environments to foster self directed learning highlights the focus on research conducted in several teaching and learning contexts where blended learning had been implemented and focused on the fostering of self directed learning Several authors have contributed to the book and each chapter provides a unique perspective on blended learning and self directed learning research From each chapter it becomes evident that coherence on the topics mentioned is established One of the main aspects drawn in this book and addressed by several authors in the book is the use of the Community of Inquiry CoI framework when implementing teaching and learning strategies in blended learning environments to foster self directed learning This notion of focusing on the CoI framework is particularly evident in both theoretical and empirical dissemination presented in this book What makes this book unique is the fact that researchers and peers in varied fields would benefit from the findings presented by each chapter albeit theoretical methodological or empirical in nature this in turn provides opportunities for future research endeavours to further the narrative of how blended learning environments can be used to foster self directed learning Contested

Energy Spaces Tarje I. Wanvik, 2018-10-30 This authored brief discusses how to conceptualize the socio material complexity of contested energy spaces in the Canadian North specifically in the context of indigenous communities that have allowed industrial developments to occur on their lands despite the environmental and lifestyle consequences By applying assemblage theory the author identifies contested energy spaces as complex places or situations that need to be understood through geographical concepts of place scale and power In 6 chapters the book challenges preconceptions of indigenous peoples as victims by examining communities that favor industrial developments and identifies instabilities in the Canadian North to analyze the power relations between industry state and indigenous communities The book will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students teachers and lecturers and geography scholars Chapter 1 introduces the concept of energy spaces and addresses the main research question posed in the text why do some indigenous communities support extractive industry developments on their traditional territories despite substantial destruction of the local environment and traditional indigenous land use practices Chapter 2 further elaborates on the conceptualization of contested energy spaces and chapter 3 applies this to the study area in Alberta Canada Chapter 4 discusses the methodology of the research process and chapter 5 presents empirical cases in Alberta from the changing governance structures of energy spaces to the networking of local indigenous communities Chapter 6 concludes the brief by summarizing the findings and by offering advice to all stakeholders regarding the dangers of leaving government processes to market forces alone Reducing

Animal Oppression and Capitalism David Nibert, 2017-09-08 This important two volume set unapologetically documents how capitalism results in the oppression of animals ranging from fish and chickens to dogs elephants and kangaroos as well as in environmental destruction vital resource depletion and climate change Most traditional narratives portray humanity's use of other animals as natural and necessary for human social development and present the idea that capitalism is generally a positive force in the world But is this worldview accurate or just a convenient easy to accept way to ignore what is really happening a systematic oppression of animals that simultaneously results in environmental destruction and places insurmountable obstacles in the path to a sustainable and peaceful future David Nibert's Animal Oppression and Capitalism is a timely two volume set that calls into question the capitalist system at a point in human history when inequality and the imbalance in the distribution of wealth are growing domestically and internationally Expert contributors show why the oppression of animals particularly the use of other animals as food is increasingly being linked to unfavorable climate change and the depletion of fresh water and other vital resources Readers will also learn about the tragic connections between the production of animal products and global hunger and expanded regional violence and warfare and they will understand how many common human health problems including heart attacks strokes and various forms of cancer develop as a result of consuming animal products

The Econocracy Joe Earle, Cahal Moran, Zach Ward-Perkins, 2017-07-06 A century ago the idea of the economy didn't exist Now economics is the supreme ideology of our time with its own rules and language The trouble is most of us can't speak it This is damaging democracy Dangerous agendas are hidden inside mathematical wrappers controversial policies are presented as proven by the models of economic science

Government is being turned over to a publicly unaccountable technocratic elite The Econocracy reveals that economics is too important to be left to the economists and shows us how we can begin to participate more fully in the decisions which affect all our futures Passive Margins K.R. McClay,J.A. Hammerstein,2020-07-01 This volume has evolved from papers written in memory of Professor David Roberts They summarize the key findings of recent research on passive margins from tectonics bathymetry stratigraphy and sedimentation structural evolution and magmatism Papers include analyses of the central and southern Atlantic margins of South America and Africa papers on magmatism and extension in the NE Brazilian margin and on the Cote de Ivoire margin rift architectures of the NW Red Sea margin tectonics of the eastern Mediterranean margin salt tectonics of passive margins of the Gulf of Mexico and Brazil and papers on the NW Shelf margin of Australia The volume provides readers with new insights into the complexities of passive margin systems that are in reality not so passive
