professionals as well as student leaders and policy makers in Africa and elsewhere Humans Need Not Apply Jerry Kaplan, 2015-08-04 An intriguing insightful look at how algorithms and robots could lead to social unrest and how to avoid it The Economist Books of the Year After decades of effort researchers are finally cracking the code on artificial intelligence Society stands on the cusp of unprecedented change driven by advances in robotics machine learning and perception powering systems that rival or exceed human capabilities Driverless cars robotic helpers and intelligent agents that promote our interests have the potential to usher in a new age of affluence and leisure but as AI expert and Silicon Valley entrepreneur Jerry Kaplan warns the transition may be protracted and brutal unless we address the two great scourges of the modern developed world volatile labor markets and income inequality In Humans Need Not Apply he proposes innovative free market adjustments to our economic system and social policies to avoid an extended period of social turmoil His timely and accessible analysis of the promises and perils of AI is a must read for business leaders and policy makers on both sides of the aisle A reminder that AI systems don't need red laser eyes to be dangerous Times Higher Education Supplement Kaplan sidesteps the usual arguments of techno optimism and dystopia preferring to go for pragmatic solutions to a shrinking pool of jobs Financial Times

Doctoral Examination: Exploring Practice Across the Globe Vijay Kumar, Stan Taylor, Sharon Sharmini, 2022-11-30 This book considers how the main doctoral awarding countries from across the globe examine doctoral degrees It compares and contrasts their approaches comments on their robustness and identifies examples of good practice The doctorate is the highest award made by universities but the examination process involved varies considerably in form and structure across the globe This book studies the similarities and differences systematically on a cross national basis providing insights into the ways in which countries have sought to ensure that the awarded degree is comparable in standards This book presents case studies of examination policies and practices covering 20 countries which collectively are responsible for nearly 75% of global doctoral awards Each chapter includes a summary of the key points and a concluding chapter analyses the case studies from a comparative perspective This book is written by a distinguished international team of authors who are researchers in doctoral education and will be of interest to all those engaged in the field particularly policy makers graduate deans and programme leaders supervisors administrators examiners and scholars in the field

Intra-Africa Student Mobility in Higher Education Chika Trevor Sehoole, Jenny J. Lee, 2022-01-01 This book examines student mobility within Africa International student mobility is among the central activities of higher education internationalization As the number of international students increase so do the destinations in both number and geographic diversity Historically international student mobility has followed South North and North North patterns However recent literature show the growth in North South and South South patterns of student mobility There has also been a rise in regional mobility In what is referred to in the book as intra Africa mobility the book explores and analyzes the patterns of intra Africa mobility based on seven African countries South Africa Kenya Uganda Nigeria Ghana Senegal and Egypt The editors and contributors address three central research questions Why did the students choose the country they are studying in Why did they choose the institution they are studying in What are their academic and social experiences in these countries and their respective institutions This book is the first comprehensive exploration of intra Africa student mobility in a field that traditionally centers on the Global North

Implausible Dream James H. Mittelman, 2020-08-04 Why the paradigm of the world class university is an implausible dream for most institutions of higher education Universities have become major actors on the global stage Yet as they strive to be world class institutions of higher education are shifting away from their core missions of cultivating democratic citizenship fostering critical thinking and safeguarding academic freedom In the contest to raise their national and global profiles universities are embracing a new form of utilitarianism one that favors market power over academic values In this book James Mittelman explains why the world class university is an implausible dream for most institutions and proposes viable alternatives that can help universities thrive in today s competitive global environment Mittelman traces how the scale reach and impact of higher education institutions expanded exponentially in the post World War II era and how the market led educational model became widespread Drawing on his own groundbreaking fieldwork he offers three case studies the United States which exemplifies market oriented educational globalization Finland representative of the strong public sphere and Uganda a postcolonial country with a historically public but now increasingly private university system Mittelman shows that the world class paradigm is untenable for all but a small group of wealthy research intensive universities primarily in the global North Nevertheless institutions without substantial material resources and in far different contexts continue to aspire to world class stature An urgent wake up call Implausible Dream argues that universities are repurposing at the peril of their high principles and recommends structural reforms that are more practical than the unrealistic worldwide measures of excellence prevalent today

Research Universities in Africa Cloete, Nico, Bunting, Ian, 2018-11-09 From the early 2000s a new discourse emerged in Africa and the international donor community that higher education was important for development in Africa Within this zeitgeist of converging interests a range of agencies agreed that a different collaborative approach to linking higher education to development was necessary This led to the establishment of the Higher Education Research and Advocacy Network in Africa Herana to concentrate on research and advocacy about the possible role and contribution of universities to development in Africa This book is the final publication to emerge from the Herana project The project has also published more than 100 articles chapters reports manuals and datasets and many presentations have been delivered to share insights gained from the work done by Herana Given its prolific dissemination it seems reasonable to ask whether this fourth and final publication will offer the reader anything new This book is certainly different from previous publications in several respects First it is the only book to include an analysis of eight African universities based on the full 15 years of empirical data collected by the project Second previous books and reports were published mid project This book has benefited from an extended gestation period allowing the authors and contributors to reflect on the project without the distractions associated with managing and participating in a large scale project For the first time some of those who have been involved in Herana since its inception have had the opportunity to at least make an attempt to see part of the wood for the trees Different does not necessarily mean new An emphasis on the newness of the data and perspectives presented in this book is important because it shows that it is more than a historical record of a donor funded project Rather each chapter in this book brings to a lesser or greater extent

Women's Work Jennifer Moore, 2025-03-11 When women have full socioeconomic citizenship as well as equitable and respectful partnerships with men transformative justice can be sustained in postconflict societies. In Women's Work Jennifer Moore presents a reimagined theory of peacebuilding and transformative justice based on the experiences and insights of women farmers and microentrepreneurs who lived through protracted civil conflicts drawing on seven years of interviews with women activists across ten communities five in the Acholi region of Northern Uganda and five in the Moyamba and Koinadugu Districts of Sierra Leone. Despite the important differences between the preconflict and conflict histories and demographics of the two countries Moore finds commonalities in the practical yet visionary approaches to community life emerging from the core values daily activities and long range goals shared by rural cooperative members in both regions. Collective survival communal healing and conflict resolution define the rhythm of these women's daily lives as they go about building peace piecemeal. They reject punitive retribution models and demand instead a peacebuilding model that advocates for advances in material well being the acknowledgment of state accountability for community suffering and reconciliation and restoration of community networks. But most important Moore amplifies these women's voices when they insist that legal equality for women and healthy partnerships between women and men are also essential components to enduring transformation of their societies. Moore theorizes what peacebuilding look like if it were modeled on these women led matriarchically structured communities that proved not only to be effective at holding governments accountable but also to have the capacity to feed their people and revitalize their local economies. Women's Work shows that when women have full socioeconomic citizenship as well as equitable and respectful partnerships with men transformative justice can be sustained.

through the arts of collective livelihood violence free conflict management and celebration Gender and Practice Vasilikie (Vicky) Demos, Marcia Texler Segal, Kristy E. Kelly, 2019-09-30 In Gender and Practice Insights from the Field twelve chapters contribute to the creation of an accessible body of knowledge that looks to provide gender practitioners with examples of what works and what doesn't in the attainment of gender equality Demons on the Couch Michael J. Sersch, 2019-01-03 Belief in possession including from demonic forces has ancient roots and continues into the modern world especially among certain communities This has been shown in books movies places of worship and in the therapy office This book traces the global history of possession and looks at ways contemporary mental health professionals can help a person who believes themselves to be possessed Written especially for clinicians but interesting to a wide variety of readers this book uses a variety of disciplines including cultural studies psychology and personal experiences to try and understand the phenomenon from as wide a perspective as possible including interviews with exorcists from various backgrounds Both believers and sceptics will find this to be a fascinating study of a controversial topic Research Handbook on Disability Policy Sally Robinson, Karen R. Fisher, 2023-06-01 Examining how policy affects the human rights of people with disabilities this topical Handbook presents diverse empirical experiences of disability policy and identifies the changes that are necessary to achieve social justice Knowledge Production and Contradictory Functions in African Higher Education Cloete, Nico, Maassen, Peter, 2015-03-01 Reviews This volume brings together excellent scholarship and innovative policy discussion to demonstrate the essential role of higher education in the development of Africa and of the world at large Based on deep knowledge of the university system in several African countries this book will reshape the debate on development in the global information economy for years to come It should be mandatory reading for academics policy makers and concerned citizens in Africa and elsewhere Manuel Castells Professor Emeritus University of California at Berkeley Laureate of the Holberg Prize 2012 and of the Balzan Prize 2013 The dominant global discourse in higher education now focuses on world class universities inevitably located predominantly in North America Europe and increasingly East Asia The rest of the world including Africa is left to play catch up But that discourse should focus rather on the tensions even contradictions between excellence and engagement with which all universities must grapple Here the African experience has much to offer the high participation and generously resourced systems of the so called developed world This book offers a critical review of that experience and so makes a major contribution to our understanding of higher education Sir Peter Scott former editor of Times Higher Education and Professor of Higher Education Studies University College London Institute of Education Fundamentals of HIV Medicine 2017 , 2017-05-15 Completely updated for 2017 Fundamentals of HIV Medicine is a comprehensive clinical care publication for the treatment of HIV AIDS Published by the American Academy of HIV Medicine the book offers physicians pharmacists nurse practitioners and other care providers the most up to date overview of the latest HIV treatments and guidelines Embodying the AAHIVM's commitment to promoting uniform excellence in care of seropositive patients Fundamentals of HIV Medicine

2017 empowers health professionals to deliver standardized life sustaining treatment to the patients who need it most It will serve as an essential clinical reference and provide valuable career enrichment to users across the spectrum of HIV care treatment and prevention Inclusion as Social Justice ,2020-07-13 Inclusion as Social Justice Theory and Practice in African Higher Education discusses the extent to which education enables equitable social access for diverse student populations in the context of historical sidelining of indigenous knowledge systems and epistemic injustice of colonial epistemologies in Africa The goal is to theoretically unpack the social differentials and micro inequities that practically disempower diverse students in African higher education To this end the book features aspects of diversity such as gender rurality refugee status and disability in general with hearing and visual impairment as prime illustrations It is argued that despite the ethically defensible and socially just policy and structural interventions for transforming higher education meant to redress the legacy of colonial injustices urban universities present epistemological equity challenges for students from rural communities Similarly the opaque fate of students displaced from their home countries and currently studying in universities in host countries is analyzed The book illustrates the access case for gender and disability in higher education using empirical studies and examples from Tanzania Kenya Ethiopia Zimbabwe and South Africa Challenges facing students in higher education in these countries and the strategies the students devise to succeed in the institutions are analyzed
