The Decolonization of Knowledge Jonathan D. Jansen,Cyrill A. Walters,2022-06-30 In 2015 students at the University of Cape Town used the slogan RhodesMustFall to demand that a monument of Cecil John Rhodes the empire builder of British South Africa be removed from the university campus Soon students at Oxford University called for the removal of a statue of Rhodes from Oriel College The radical idea of decolonization at the forefront of these student protests continues to be a key element in South African educational institutions as well as those in Europe and North America This book explores the uptake of decolonization in the institutional curriculum given the political demands for decolonization on South African campuses and the generally positive reception of the idea by university leaders Based on interviews with more than two hundred academic teachers at ten universities this is an innovative account of how institutions have engaged with subverted and transformed the decolonization movement since RhodesMustFall

Post-admission Language Assessment of University Students John Read,2016-08-10 English medium universities around the world face real challenges in ensuring that incoming students have the language and literacy skills they need to cope with the demands of their degree programmes One response has been a variety of institutional initiatives to assess students after admission in order to identify those with significant needs and advise them on how to enhance their academic language ability This volume brings together papers from Australia Canada Hong Kong New Zealand Oman South Africa and the United States written by language assessment specialists who discuss issues in the design and implementation of these post admission assessments in their own institutions A major theme running through the book is the need to evaluate the validity of such assessments not just on their technical quality but on their impact in terms of giving students access to effective means of developing their language skills and ultimately enhancing their academic achievement

Water, Governance, and Crime Issues Katja Eman, Gorazd Meško, Lorenzo Segato, Massimo Migliorini, 2020-07-23 This book provides an overview of crimes involving water including pollution illegal dumping and supply chain disruption from a criminological perspective It examines a multifaceted issue from a comparative policy perspective supplemented with individual case studies to provide insights on the magnitude of the problem as well as possible solutions and policy recommendations As growing populations and economic sectors continue to put unprecedented pressures on water supplies the book aims to contribute to a better understanding of the problem in order to ensure the sustainability long term viability and equitable use of this essential resource The first part of the volume examines criminological and policy perspectives including an overview of regulatory approaches privatization of water resources and the scope of the criminal problem in this area The second part presents informative case studies from a variety of different regional and social contexts Finally the editors present an outlook in policy and enforcement improvements This work will be of interest to researchers in criminology criminal justice public policy and comparative law as well as those studying environmental regulations and sustainability Water Governance and Crime Issues is a much needed addition to the growing original contributions of green criminology. This volume captures the complex landscape of water crimes including the numerous disparities and inequalities of there being too much water in some places and too little in others amongst the many complexities. The edited collection also covers conceptual issues i.e. water as a human right as well as practical hurdles i.e. the challenges in keeping statistics on offences and real world examples. Many of the chapters are likely to introduce readers to new issues and the interplay with a myriad of traditional problems: corruption, organised crime, privatisation and terrorism. I agree with the editors and authors that water crime issues deserve further scientific study and this provides a solid starting point. Dr Tanya Wyatt, University of Northumbria. Population growth and urbanization, more frequent droughts due to climate change, the privatization of and unequal access to water resources and increasing water pollution are just some of the contemporary and future challenges relating to water crimes. Water Governance and Crime Issues speaks to the scientific relevance of water for green criminology as well as the policy implications of water crimes. Several of the cases in this edited book refer to countries and regions we do not usually hear about and yet are perfect illustrations of the challenges faced in governing and studying water crimes. Dr Lieselot Bisschop, Erasmus School of Law. Postgraduate Study in South Africa. Liezel Frick, 2016-11-21. The book explores concerns about the lack of higher education transformation around issues of equity, curriculum reform, language and race and how students navigate higher education complexities. Students' self-reflective abilities, creativity and pragmatic approaches to surviving and succeeding are indicators that postgraduate student success is as much internally as externally determined. Each chapter speaks from a uniquely South African perspective. The editors have tried to remain true to the voice of each contributor while simultaneously providing a coherent body of scholarly work. Thinking Critically in College. Louis Newman, 2023-03-07. Finally a college prep book that actually prepares students for college. Almost all first year college students discover that college courses are more academically challenging than they expected and certainly harder than classes in high school. Professors expect students not just to absorb material but to analyze and synthesize it, consider multiple perspectives, evaluate conflicting evidence and then apply what they've learned in new contexts. Thinking Critically in College explains how to do all this and more. Louis E. Newman draws on decades of experience as a professor at Carleton College and Dean of Academic Advising and Associate Vice Provost for Undergraduate Education at Stanford, offering the guidance you need to succeed both in college and in life post-graduation. Unique among college prep books, Thinking Critically in College builds on the latest research in learning, spells out the key critical thinking skills you need, shows you how to tackle actual college assignments and provides exercises throughout to reinforce the lessons. Written in a personal, engaging style, Thinking Critically in College explains how to do the work your professors will require exactly the preparation you need, no matter what your academic background. Practical, accessible, comprehensive and interactive, Thinking Critically in College is the definitive guide not only for those in college or headed there but for everyone who needs a refresher on thinking clearly.

Migration at Work Fiona-Katharina Seiger, Christiane Timmerman, Noel B. Salazar, Johan Wets, 2020-09-25 The willingness to migrate in search of employment is in itself insufficient to compel anyone to move The dynamics of labour mobility are heavily influenced by the opportunities perceived and the imaginaries held by both employers and regulating authorities in relation to migrant labour This volume offers a multidisciplinary approach to the study of the structures and imaginaries underlying various forms of mobility Based on research conducted in different geographical contexts including the European Union Turkey and South Africa and tackling the experiences and aspirations of migrants from various parts of the globe the chapters comprised in this volume analyse labour related mobilities from two distinct yet intertwined vantage points the role of structures and regimes of mobility on the one hand and aspirations as well as migrant imaginaries on the other Migration at Work thus aims to draw cross contextual parallels by addressing the role played by opportunities in mobilising people how structures enable sustain and change different forms of mobility and how imaginaries fuel labour migration and vice versa In doing so this volume also aims to tackle the interrelationships between imaginaries driving migration and shaping regimes of mobility as well as how the former play out in different contexts shaping internal and cross border migration Based on empirical research in various fields this collection provides valuable scholarship and evidence on current processes of migration and mobility
