Leadership for Sustainable Higher Education Saad, Wan Zuhainis, Alias, Nor Aziah, Chong, Chou Min, Sabri, Suriana, 2025-06-04 Higher Education management and academics are currently faced with the task of balancing a market and competition based education versus values based education as people trudge through the Anthropocene era when humans have a substantial impact on the planet The holistic and comprehensive nature of higher education that aims to instill a range of ethical moral and social values in students is paramount The graduates that enter the workforce must unfailingly become responsible members of society and inadvertently contribute to the nation s prosperity and global harmony Strong leadership and the agency to keep learning are unavoidable Furthermore the vast technological advances may drive practices that prioritize social responsibility sustainability and well being Digital Leadership for Sustainable

Higher Education presents key parameters for transforming higher education in response to the significant and unforeseen changes in the educational landscape. It explores the vast technological advances together with the complexities of the higher education ecosystem and proposes ways to uphold purpose-driven practices. Covering topics such as digital health, credentialing, and nurturing empathy, this book is an excellent resource for educators, higher education leaders, technologists, sustainability experts, professionals, researchers, scholars, academicians, and more.

Student Movements in Late Neoliberalism Lorenzo Cini, Donatella della Porta, César Guzmán-Concha, 2021-08-22 This book inquires into the global wave of student mobilizations that have arisen in the aftermath of the economic crisis of 2008, accounting for their historical and sociological significance. More specifically, its eleven chapters explore the role of students as political actors, their ability to build effective organizations to make political alliances with other actors, and to win public consensus, as well as their impact on cultural, political, and policy outcomes. To do so, the volume examines case studies in England, Chile, South Africa, Quebec, and Hong Kong, covering Europe, Africa, Asia, and North and Latin America. Grouped into two major sections, the collection covers the organizational structures of student movements and their alliances and outcomes. Ultimately, this volume examines the understudied political aspects of student unrest, exploring how student mobilizations driven by indebtedness, precariousness, the corporatization of the university, and other issues correspond to larger processes of change with wider implications in society.

Increasing Resilience to Climate Variability and Change Cecilia Tortajada, 2016-08-18 This book highlights the role that both infrastructure and governance play in the context of resilience and adaptation to climate variability and change. Eleven case studies analyze in depth impacts of extreme events in projects, basins, and regions in the Arid Americas, United States, and Mexico, Australia, Brazil, China, Egypt, France, Nepal, Mexico, Pakistan, Turkey, and South Africa. They discuss the importance of infrastructure, mainly reservoirs, in adaptation strategies, how planning and management aspects should improve in response to changing climatic, economic, social, and environmental situations, and what the management, institutional, and financial challenges would be for their implementation. Governance aspects, policies, institutions, and decision making, and technical and knowledge limitations are a substantial part of the analyses. The case studies argue that reservoirs are essential to build resilience, contributing to adaptation to climate variability and change. However, for them to be effective, they need to be planned and managed within a governance framework that considers long-term perspectives and multi-sector and multi-level actor needs and perspectives.

Management Studies in South Africa Shaun Ruggunan, R. Sooryamoorthy, 2018-09-20 This book examines the trajectory of management studies in South Africa during the apartheid and post apartheid periods The unique political journey of South Africa provides a distinctive context in which to explore the progression of management studies within a developing state The authors consider how Apartheid has configured the discipline of management studies to reflect certain racial institutional and gendered trends and analyse the extent to which these trends have adapted or changed in post Apartheid times Appealing to management scholars and professionals this book provides implications for policy and practice within the South African higher education sector and presents avenues for future research

Deanship in the Global South Oliver J.J. Seale, 2021-02-08 The university today is a postmodern neo liberal competitive boundary less knowledge conglomerate a far cry from its historical traditional classical and collegial roots There is a body of literature on deanship that points to its evolving nature in the contemporary academe characterised by complexity and change Balancing academic demands simultaneously with the requirements for effective performance leadership and management lies at the heart of this very challenging bridging role nowadays Deans are generally former academics emerging from a traditional collegial space and often catapulted into the relatively unknown domain of executive management with its related problems Deans nowadays are required to be more than collegial intellectual leaders They are also meant to be fiscal and human resource experts fundraisers politicians and diplomats Deanship in the Global South Bridging Troubled Waters is about the deans lived reality as they try to balance the demands of both the academe from which they emerge and the administration to whom they now need to account Their lack of preparation and inadequate support points to the need for a more strategic integrated approach to leadership development within their critical bridging roles between the academe and administration
