Thomas,Emilee Rauschenberger,Katherine Crawford-Garrett,2020-07-28 Winner 2022 Outstanding Book Award from the Society of Professors of Education Winner 2021 Book Award from the Globalization and Education SIG Comparative and International Education Society Examining Teach For All brings together research focused on Teach For All and its affiliate programmes to explore the organisation s impact on education around the world Teach For All is an expanding global network of programmes in more than 50 countries that aim to radically transform education systems by recruiting talented graduates to teach for two years in under resourced schools and developing them into lifelong advocates of reform The volume offers nuanced insights into the interests and contexts shaping Teach For All and the challenges and possibilities inherent in broader efforts to enact education reform on a global scale This volume is the first of its kind to present empirical research on the emergence and expansion of Teach For All programmes which replicate and adapt the Teach For America model around the world The volume traces the network s expansion from its initial launch in 2007 to its growing international presence as chapters present new research from national contexts as diverse as Bangladesh Lebanon and Spain Using evidence from a range of perspectives and research methodologies the chapters collectively highlight the ways in which Teach For All and its affiliate programmes are working to alter educational landscapes worldwide This book will be of great interest for scholars educators post graduate students and policymakers in the fields of comparative education teacher education education leadership and education policy It paves the way for future critical inquiry into this expanding global network as well as further investigations of educational change around the world

Integrating Discovery-Based Research into the Undergraduate Curriculum National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Committee for Convocation on Integrating Discovery-Based Research into the Undergraduate Curriculum, 2016-01-07

Students who participate in scientific research as undergraduates report gaining many benefits from the experience However undergraduate research done independently under a faculty member's guidance or as part of an internship regardless of its individual benefits is inherently limited in its overall impact Faculty members and sponsoring companies have limited time and funding to support undergraduate researchers and most institutions have available or have allocated only enough human and financial resources to involve a small fraction of their undergraduates in such experiences Many more students can be involved as undergraduate researchers if they do scientific research either collectively or individually as part of a regularly scheduled course Course based research experiences have been shown to provide students with many of the same benefits acquired from a mentored summer research experience assuming that sufficient class time is invested and several different potential advantages In order to further explore this issue the Division on Earth and Life Studies and the Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education organized a convocation meant to examine the efficacy of engaging large numbers of undergraduate students who are enrolled in traditional academic year courses in the life and related sciences in original research civic engagement around scientific issues and or intensive study of research methods and scientific publications at both two and four year colleges and universities Participants explored the benefits and costs of offering students such experiences and the ways that such efforts may both influence and be influenced by issues such as institutional governance available resources and professional expectations of faculty Integrating Discovery Based Research into the Undergraduate Curriculum summarizes the presentations and discussions from this event
