The Fires Beneath Seán Morrow, 2016-06-01 The life of Monica Wilson is a story of groundbreaking scholarship passionate creativity and personal tragedy during South Africa's bitter and divided twentieth century As a young anthropologist in the 1930s Monica immersed herself in the lives work and beliefs of African communities in southern and East Africa while carefully observing the effects of historical change At the core of her existence was her intellectual collaboration and intense personal relationship with her husband the brilliant but clinically depressive Godfrey Wilson who took his own life in 1944 After Godfrey's death Monica raised their two children and built a career as a leading academic at Fort Hare Rhodes University College and the University of Cape Town In a political environment where black academics were under constant threat and ideas were censored she outspokenly advocated racial equality and freedom of speech her publications emphasising a common South African identity and implicitly challenging apartheid separate development This fascinating biography moves between the Eastern Cape Cambridge Tanganyika Nyasaland Northern Rhodesia and Cape Town It explores the relationship between anthropology and history and the tensions between liberalism Christianity Marxism and apartheid ideology Drawing on the letters and diaries left by Monica and Godfrey Wilson this is a powerful story about politics race war faith love and loss

Anchored in Place Leslie Bank, Nico Cloete, 2018-11-05 Tensions in South African universities have traditionally centred around equity particularly access and affordability historical legacies such as apartheid and colonialism and the shape and structure of the higher education system What has not received sufficient attention is the contribution of the university to place based development This volume is the first in South Africa to engage seriously with the place based developmental role of universities In the international literature and policy there has been an increasing integration of the university with place based development especially in cities This volume weighs in on the debate by drawing attention to the place based roles and agency of South African universities in their local towns and cities It acknowledges that universities were given specific development roles in regions homelands and towns under apartheid and comments on why sub national place based development has not been a key theme in post apartheid higher education planning Given the developmental crisis in the country universities could be expected to play a more constructive and meaningful role in the development of their own precincts cities and regions But what should that role be Is there evidence that this is already occurring in South Africa despite the lack of a national policy framework What plans and programmes are in place and what is needed to expand the development agency of universities at the local level Who and what might be involved Where should the focus lie and who might benefit most and why Is there a need perhaps to approach the challenges of college towns secondary cities and metropolitan centers differently This book poses some of these questions as it considers the experiences of a number of South African universities including Wits Pretoria Nelson Mandela University and especially Fort Hare as one of its post centenary challenges

Association Men, 1961 The Origin and Growth of Geography as a discipline at South Africa Universities Gustav Visser, 2016-09-20 The publication provides the first comprehensive text that reflects on a century of the development of geography as an academic discipline at South African universities The book showcases a broad and textured review of South Africa s geography departments their staff members their times and the different Geographies they engaged in The book lays the foundation from which more expansive individual departmental histories can be written in the future
