

UNODC

An abstract, expressive painting of a human face, rendered in a style reminiscent of Vincent van Gogh. The face is composed of thick, visible brushstrokes in a palette of warm, earthy tones including ochre, sienna, and terracotta, contrasted with deep, dark reds and blacks. The eyes are particularly striking, with bright, yellowish-gold highlights. The overall composition is dynamic and textured, with the face appearing to emerge from a dark, swirling background.

Unodc Trafficking Report 2009:

Human Trafficking John Winterdyk, Benjamin Perrin, Philip Reichel, 2011-12-05 Human trafficking is a crime that undermines fundamental human rights and a broader sense of global order It is an atrocity that transcends borders with some regions known as exporters of trafficking victims and others recognized as destination countries Edited by three global experts and composed of the work of an esteemed panel of contributors

Maritime Challenges and Priorities in Asia Joshua Ho, Sam Bateman, 2013-02-15 Maritime issues are particularly important for Asian countries where there is a high reliance on shipping routes for international trade many difficult disputes over maritime boundaries and the prospect of increasing tensions where maritime power might play a significant role This book uses contributions by 17 experts to build a comprehensive survey of the maritime issues affecting Asia It discusses the issues overall goes on to examine the issues from the perspective of each of 14 key countries and concludes by assessing the prospects for resolving common problems in order to preserve good order at sea

Transnational Crimes in the Americas Marshall B. Lloyd, 2018-10-30 Transnational Crimes in the Americas addresses contemporary issues with respect to public institutions that are stakeholders in the fight against globalization of crime Regional public organizations with a primary focus on the Americas constitute a framework for understanding the need for an institutional response within the Western Hemisphere While other authors have addressed the growth of organized crime no one has explained institutional developments in the struggle against transnational crimes Transnational Crimes in the Americas highlights existing organizations emphasizing a regional response to transnational crimes suggestions for a permanent criminal court in the Americas and an appraisal of the current state of institutional developments in the region

Scorecard Diplomacy Judith G. Kelley, 2017-05-02 What can the international community do when countries would rather ignore a thorny problem Scorecard Diplomacy shows that despite lacking traditional force public grades are potent symbols that can evoke countries concerns about their reputations and motivate them to address the problem The book develops an unconventional but careful argument about the growing phenomenon of such ratings and rankings It supports this by examining the United States foreign policy on human trafficking using a global survey of NGOs case studies thousands of diplomatic cables media stories 90 interviews worldwide and other documents All of this is gathered together in a format that walks the reader through the mechanisms of scorecard diplomacy including an assessment of the outcomes Scorecard Diplomacy speaks both to those keen to understand the pros and cons of US policy on human trafficking and to those interested in the central question of influence in international relations The book s companion website can be found at www.scorecarddiplomacy.org

Labour Migration, Human Trafficking and Multinational Corporations Ato Quayson, Antonela Arhin, 2013-06-19 Although much literature on human trafficking focuses on sex trafficking a great deal of human trafficking results from migrant workers compelled by economic deprivation in their home countries to seek better life opportunities abroad especially in agriculture construction and domestic work Such labour migration is sometimes legal and well managed but sometimes not so with migrant workers frequently threatened or coerced into entering debt bondage arrangements and ending up working in forced labour situations producing goods for illicit markets This book fills a substantial gap in the existing literature given that labour trafficking is a much more subtle form of exploitation than sex trafficking It discusses how far large multinational corporations are involved whether intentionally or unintentionally in human trafficking for the purposes of labour exploitation They explore how far corporations are driven to seek cheap labour by the need to remain commercially competitive and examine how the problem often lies with corporations subcontractors who are not as well controlled as they might be The essays in the volume also outline and assess measures being taken by governments and international agencies to eradicate the problem

Maritime Security Cooperation in the Gulf of Guinea Kamal-Deen Ali, 2015-07-28 In Maritime Security Cooperation in the Gulf of Guinea: Prospects and Challenges Kamal Deen Ali provides ground breaking analyses of the maritime security situation in the Gulf of Guinea and its implications for shipping energy security sustainable fisheries as well as national and regional security The book juxtaposes the growing strategic importance of the Gulf of Guinea against the rising insecurity in the maritime domain especially from piracy Ali points out key gaps in prevailing regional and international approaches to maritime security cooperation in the Gulf of Guinea and sets out several suggestions for combating piracy as well as other maritime security threats while effectively enhancing maritime security cooperation in the region

Transnational Organised Crime in International Law Tom Obokata, 2010-08-17 There is extensive and detailed academic literature on the legal development of international crimes such as war crimes and crime against humanity However not much attention has been paid to other serious crimes including narcotics related offences human trafficking and money laundering which do not necessarily amount to international crimes in the traditional sense The purpose of this monograph is to fill this gap and offer a critical analysis of developments in the field of transnational organised crime under international law The book is divided into two parts Part I is entitled Norms Principles and Concepts It traces the history of organised crime and explores key concepts and norms relating to the practice from a multi disciplinary perspective It then looks at legal obligations imposed upon States as well as non State actors in relation to transnational organised crime Part II illustrates how these norms principles and obligations are translated and enforced in practice This will be done through case studies at the level of national law Thailand Serbia and the UK regional law European Union and international law United Nations A book of many parts its thematic coherence comes from its devotion to identifying the social threat posed by organised crime and the legal steps taken at the international and national levels against that threat Rich with example and illustration and written in a light direct style it will provide a lucid guide for practitioners policy makers and students to the largely untraversed territory of the international legal system set up to suppress transnational organised crime Professor Neil Bolster University of Canterbury New Zealand the international law governing organized crime is a close relative of the body of law applicable to the International Criminal Court and similar institutions It provides a forum to address issues of more general concern such as the scope of universal jurisdiction immunities statutory limitation and extradition Tom Obokata s study with its original and in some ways unique perspective enriches our knowledge of the field Professor William Schabas Irish Centre for Human Rights The book is well written its documentation is quite exhaustive and its thesis is timely and compelling Professor M Cherif Bassiouni DePaul University College of Law

Common Goods and Evils? Anja P. Jakobi, 2013-07-04 Global crime governance has emerged as an important component of world politics It is manifested in national and international agendas the proliferation of global regulations growing international budgets and the enlarged mandates of international organizations As a result the definition and prosecution of crime is now increasingly homogenous but it also shows variance some crime policies are institutionalized coherently or attached to strong international organizations while others are weak or dispersed across different forums Based on sociological institutionalism this book examines questions of structural variance in the institutional design of global governance It shows that the interplay of strong actors and rationalization principles lead to more coherent forms of global crime governance while normative arguments related to crime are more likely to result in fragmented forms In consequence and contrary to many scholars assumptions global crime governance is strongest in those areas that are least attached to moral statements The book develops a theory of society and applies this framework to explaining the sources and consequences of institutional design Drawing on qualitative and quantitative methods the text analyzes the origins of global regulations how they are disseminated and why differences exist The role of the United States in creating global rules and disseminating them is emphasized Readers interested in international relations global governance globalization studies world society studies and criminology will benefit from the theoretical and empirical results of this book

A West African Model to Address Human Trafficking Paul V.I. Sidlawinde Karenga, 2022-02-02 This book describes the nature of trafficking in persons in West Africa focusing on labor and sexual exploitation in the region and recommends tailor made solutions established by the Catholic Church in light of governmental authorities failure to effectively combat this scourge of humanity While states efforts to fulfill their international obligations in developing anti trafficking legislations are recognized their failure to carry out prosecutions of offenders and ensure protection of the victims reveals that law alone is not a sufficient instrument for realizing human rights and improving people s lives Faced with the sobering background of less than successful efforts by governmental entities to end the trade in humans this research study recommends adopting essential elements of Catholic social teaching which rests on the inherent dignity of human beings allowing the development of political socio cultural and religious reforms that will increase the effectiveness of existing legislation designed to combat trafficking This faith based approach highlights the role that religion may play in fulfilling the discretionary provisions of the Palermo Protocol by promoting the welfare and protecting the life and dignity of the victims Additionally religion is composed of sound moral ethics that determine people s behavior to refrain from the sinful conduct of trafficking It also creates a sense of ethical responsibility that promotes supply chain transparency and ethical purchasing as well as advocating social reforms and anti trafficking legislations initiatives In fact the author s approach may be a model for other regions in the world and will be of interest to scholars law and policy makers human rights advocates and law enforcement agents working in the field of trafficking in persons

The Routledge Handbook of Women's Experiences of Criminal Justice Isla Masson, Natalie Booth, 2022-10-25 This Handbook brings together the voices of a range of contributors interested in the many varied experiences of women in criminal justice systems and who are seeking to challenge the status quo Although there is increasing literature and research on gender and certain aspects of the criminal justice system often Western focused there is a significant gap in the form of a Handbook that brings together these important gendered conversations This essential book explores research and theory on how women are perceived handled and experience criminal justice within and across different jurisdictions with particular consideration of gendered and disparate treatment of women as law breakers There is also consideration of women s experiences through an intersectional lens including race and class as well as feminist scholarship and activism The Handbook contains 47 unique chapters with nine overarching themes Lessons from history and theory Routes into the criminal justice system Intersectionality Sentencing and the courts and community punishments Specific offences Incarcerated women s experiences Mothers and families Rehabilitation and reintegration Practitioner relationships and each theme includes contributions from different countries as well as the experiences of contributors from different stages in their own journey International and interdisciplinary in scope this Handbook is essential reading for scholars and students of criminology sociology social policy social work and law It will also be of interest to practitioners such as social workers probation officers prison officers and policy makers

Ideology and the Fight Against Human Trafficking Reyhan Atasü-Topcuoğlu,2014-10-10 Human trafficking has become one of the most spoken of problems of our day and fighting it has grown into a multi million dollar project sector This book is about how we all come to name various exploitative migratory experiences human trafficking and how we build a consensus on how to counter it This book investigates counter trafficking as a transnational field and tries to show how connected stances against a global social problem are produced internationally in general and nationally in particular within the example of three countries which are defined with different positions according to the phenomenon Ukraine as a source country Turkey as a transit and destination country Germany as a destination country The book examines how power relations limit the language to propose and solve social problems in the example of human trafficking It shows the limits of scientific studies on the issue and the chasm between counter trafficking and its primary target group the trafficked people

Cocaine Sebastián A. Cutrona,Jonathan D. Rosen,2025-11-04 This superbly edited volume provides scholars and general readers with an in depth view of the evolution nature dynamics and consequences of the global cocaine industry Cocaine The Global Reach of the World s Most Lucrative Illicit Drug offers an unprecedented global analysis of the cocaine trade revealing how the world s most lucrative illicit market operates today Unlike previous works that focus on individual countries or regions this volume takes a global view of the cocaine supply chain tracking the drug s journey from coca fields in the Andes to consumers in New York Lagos Rotterdam Sydney and beyond With contributions from leading scholars in criminology sociology and political science it sheds light on the expanding networks of criminal organizations that connect producer countries in Latin America to consumer markets worldwide The book explores the profound transformation of the cocaine market which has shifted from being dominated by a few powerful cartels to a fragmented and highly competitive underworld Colombian and Mexican organizations have traditionally controlled the market but new actors including Brazilian Nigerian and Albanian syndicates have emerged as key players From the rise of transshipment hubs in West Africa to nontraditional trafficking routes in Asia this volume demonstrates how criminal organizations adapt to evolving market demands and law enforcement crackdowns Just as multinational corporations streamline production cocaine traffickers around the world manage logistics transportation and financial flows across continents Yet unlike legal industries the cocaine market thrives on secrecy violence and corruption making it one of the most resilient global enterprises By bridging theoretical frameworks from different disciplines this volume deepens our understanding of how the global illicit economy functions From the campesinos harvesting coca to the street dealers in Europe and the United States the book emphasizes the interconnectedness of all actors in this lucrative dangerous market Furthermore it critiques the failures of international counter drug efforts revealing how institutional corruption and state fragility perpetuate the trade This book is an essential resource for policymakers scholars and anyone seeking to understand the complexities of the global cocaine economy

Non-Traditional Security in Asia Mely Caballero-Anthony, Alistair D.B. Cook, 2013 Non Traditional Security in Asia examines the critical security challenges faced by states and societies in Asia including health food water natural disasters internal conflict forced migration energy transnational crime and cyber security Through the development of a comprehensive analytical framework that establishes the key ingredients to policy evaluation the editors draw on a wide variety of experts to collaborate in investigating these crucial issues This inclusive framework ensures that all voices are heard including those oftentimes under represented and marginalized in society to ensure that academic and policy debates are well informed about the often complex and nuanced nature of these non traditional security challenges Through an investigation into these specific non traditional security threats Non Traditional Security in Asia documents and evaluates many of the most pressing challenges faced by Asia today The authors analyse the ways in which particular issues are addressed by the many stakeholders involved in the policy making process both within governments and across societies The question of how these challenges are addressed across and between the different levels of global governance highlights the strengths and weakness that are directly attributable to policy successes and failures It is through this layered and comprehensive approach together with an evaluation of the role of stakeholders which binds together the chapter contributions to this collection The book undertakes an issue specific chapter study of how Asian states and societies address these non traditional security concerns from environmental adaptation and mitigation measures to conflict resolution For each issue area it identifies and explains the concerns of various policy communities identifying the motivations behind some of the key decisions made to affect change or stabilize the status quo. Essentially it questions not only what a security issue is but also for whom the issue is important and the interaction this has with policy outcomes. With a focus on regional and global institutions as well as national and local ones, this collection illustrates the variety of stakeholders involved in non traditional security concerns and reflects on their relative importance in the decision making process. Through a systematic evaluation of these non traditional security issues by employing a comprehensive analytical framework, critical appreciation of the dynamics of the policy making process surrounding issues of crucial national, regional and international significance in Asia are made. As a result of sharing these insights, the contributors provide the tools as well as a selection of issue specific stakeholders to illuminate the key but complex characteristics of non traditional security in Asia.
