Handbook on the Geographies of Power Mat Coleman, John Agnew, 2018-07-27 The so called spatial turn in the social sciences means that many researchers have become much more interested in what can be called the spatialities of power or the ways in which power as a medium for achieving goals is related to where it takes place Most famous authors on the subject such as Machiavelli and Hobbes saw power as entirely equivalent to domination exercised by some over others Though this meaning is hardly redundant understandings of power have become more multidimensional and nuanced as a result of the spatial turn Much recent writing in human geography for example has rigorously extended use of the term power beyond its typical understanding as a resource that pools up in some hands and some places to a medium of agency that has different effects depending on how it is deployed across space and how actors cooperate or not to give it effect To address this objective the book is organized thematically into four sections that cover the main areas in which much of the contemporary work on geographies of power is concentrated bodies economy environment and energy and war

Homecraft and the Home Owner, 1952 Local Volunteering, Adult Learning and Social Change in the Philippines Chris Millora, 2025-07-10 Based on long term ethnographic fieldwork this book explores the learning and literacy dimensions of local volunteering for social change in the Philippines It tells the story of youth and adult volunteers who experience vulnerabilities yet play central roles in local development efforts in housing and sexual health Why do people who themselves experience vulnerability volunteer to help others And what are their learning experiences in the process In its unique application of a literacy lens to the study of volunteering the book unravels how marginalised groups often seen as thankful receivers re use texts words and labels to re define their roles in shaping social change and for whose benefit Chris Millora provides an in depth look into the volunteers everyday activities such as delivering community health classes filling out donor forms and applying for government approvals In doing so this book reveals how volunteers voices and agency were constrained to fit a certain bureaucratic way of working It offers powerful case studies on how global development agendas such as value for money upskilling and professionalisation through bureaucratic literacies impact the experiences of volunteers at the grassroots level Arguing that literacy and volunteering could enhance inequalities within groups this book calls for a renewed focus on the role that power and identities play both in adult youth literacy and volunteering research
