

Solving Equations

Many algebra problems are actually based on being comfortable in using equal unknown quantities, or equations, as a statement that the quantities involved are the same as quantities that cannot change (the unknowns) while creating statements that represent the actual situation. For example, if a car travels 60 miles per hour for 3 hours, it will travel 180 miles. This is a simple equation: $60 \times 3 = 180$.

While there are many properties of real numbers and properties of equations that are true, there are some properties that help us solve equations.

Basic Properties of Equations

Substitution property

If two quantities differ and one quantity is equal to a third, then the other quantity is equal to the third.

$$a = b \text{ and } b = c \text{ then } a = c$$

Substitution property

$$a = b \text{ then } a \text{ can be replaced by } b$$

If two quantities differ and one quantity is equal to a third, then the other quantity is equal to the third. This is a simple equation: $a = b$ and $b = c$ then $a = c$.

$$a = b \text{ and } b = c \text{ then } a = c$$
