Acts of Resistance in Late-Modernist Theatre Richard Murphet, 2019-10-29 In Acts of Resistance in Late Modernist Theatre Richard Murphet presents a close analysis of the theatre practice of two ground breaking artists Richard Foreman and Jenny Kemp active over the late twentieth and the early twenty first century In addition he tracks the development of a form of epileptic writing over the course of his own career as writer director Murphet argues that these three auteurs have developed subversive alternatives to the previously dominant forms of dramatic realism in order to re think the relationship between theatre and reality They write and direct their own work and their artistic experimentation is manifest in the tension created between their content and their form Murphet investigates how the works are made rather than focusing upon an interpretation of their meaning Through an examination of these artists we gain a deeper understanding of a late modernist paradigm shift in theatre practice

Literature and Money, 2023-12-18 At a time when the dull rationality of the money calculus seems to be making ground in every sphere it is perhaps opportune to reopen the question of literature and its relations with a rationality defined according to the logic of economic exchange what kinds of value flow from such a rationality and what possibilities of resistance are there if we happen not to like the model and its more rebarbative ideological implications Historically attempts to reduce the richness of human exchange to utilitarian or economic paradigms have met with counter cultural expressions of dissent and defiance And yet the search for an authentic community outside the reifications and repressions of economic exchange presents its own ambiguities and pitfalls since the attempt to ground value in other spheres can function ideologically to secure and legitimize the very values it seeks to oppose This is especially true in literature and other expressions of high culture where mobilizations of the aesthetic or the textual as a site of resistance to economic hegemony are frequently recuperated in advance by the dominant discourse The essays collected here tend then to explore in various ways not only the ideological implications of literary or more broadly cultural representations or constructions of economic exchange but also the often complex mediations that such constructions enter into with different kinds of oppositional discourse
