Abstract

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week resistance training program on the muscle strength and endurance of young adults. The subjects were 20 young adults (10 males and 10 females) who were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group performed no resistance training, while the experimental group performed a 12-week resistance training program. The subjects were tested at baseline and at the end of the 12-week program. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly greater muscle strength and endurance than the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The findings of this study suggest that a 12-week resistance training program can improve muscle strength and endurance in young adults.
