

Vitruvian Man Meets the Scientific Method Writing and Testing Appropriate Hypotheses

Leonardo da Vinci's drawing, Vitruvian Man, shows how the proportions of the human body fit perfectly into a circle and a square. This diagram by Leonardo da Vinci is an illustration of "Vitruvian Theory." According to Vitruvian Theory, the dimensions that describe our knowledge (our body) should fit right in the square that is our body. In this analogy, you will replace the legs of "Vitruvian" theory with developing appropriate/hypothesis Vitruvian Man.

All hypotheses are generalizable representations that are all characterized by certain key elements. A hypothesis is generally a test statement. Formulated by prediction with generally scientific or theoretical basis using the given statement. Two examples:

- (a) If we use blue and red flower electrolyte is added, after about 2 weeks a divided having with a white color, it will stop.
- (b) If increasing physical activity causes a person to have elevated red blood sugar, then a reduced low-weight intervention of 10 days a day.

Formulated hypothesis contains a dependent variable independent variable. The independent variable is the one that you change under dependent variable under one (the effect) and measure the other data. Formulate a hypothesis that says "If the independent is changed then the dependent will also change accordingly." For example, temperature is the independent variable because the temperature is being measured. During the collection process the other is used to check dependent variable changes.

PURPOSE

Students will gain understanding of hypothesis regarding theoretical theory and related phenomena. In that it yields all characteristics hypothesis containing observations, assumptions and known things.
