I believe that the E Symposium on Industrial and Systems Engineering (ISE) should promote an integrated learning environment for an interdisciplinary approach through its academic advisory programs that provide mathematics, statistics, and computer science as additional rather than engineering subjects. My current research has led me to a previous report (Hybrid Programs: Future Trends) where I recommended the engineering and technological changes in business. I concluded to propose that I would have the opportunity to expand on the knowledge I was introduced to as "Soft Skills." I am excited to be able present to that learning system as the E Symposium on Industrial and Systems Engineering through the integration of the academic knowledge and my personal/industry-related experience as business and management-related activities.
