The Dubbin Girls:

The Dubbin Girls Ruth Diephouse Johnsen, 2014-10-28 London 1872 Already traumatized by the death of their mother Elizabeth and Jane Mary Dubbin don't understand why a strange woman is packing their clothes and taking them out of their home. Just that morning their Papa had told them to stay inside. Were they being kidnapped to be sold as slaves? Were they to become prisoners? Instead, this was the beginning of their years at Ilford Orphanage. Heartfelt and immersive, The Dubbin Girls is an epic work of historical fiction. Who would have thought that two little English girls abandoned by their grieving and heartbroken father would form the foundation of a sprawling family in a new land? The challenges they face are not so different from those faced by today's families, and their faith in God and righteousness supports them as well during the first half of the twentieth century as it does for believers today, one hundred years later. Author Bio Ruth Johnsen began her writing career as feature editor of her high school newspaper. Her articles have appeared in Greenprints, Reminisce, as well as the Chicago Tribune. Missions Possible, her previous non-fiction book, described unusual efforts by missionaries, including one family who built a miniature golf course in Ecuador. She resides in a senior citizen complex in Columbia, Missouri.

The London Journal: and Weekly Record of Literature, Science, and Art, 1882 Decisions United States. Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, 1950-12 Folthorp's [afterw.] Page's Court guide and general directory for Brighton, Hove and Cliftonville. [Continued as] Page's [afterw.] Towner's Brighton (Hove) and suburban directory, 1883 The Girl, a Horse and a Dog Francis Lynde, 1920 The Importance of Music to Girls Lavinia Greenlaw, 2025-09-23

The Importance of Music to Girls is the story of the adventures that music leads us into, how it forms and transforms us. As a soundtrack, it's there in the background while we go about the thrilling and mortifying business of growing up: raging, falling in love, wanting to change the world. Lavinia Greenlaw turns the volume up loud, and in prose of pure fury and beauty makes us remember how the music came first. For Greenlaw, music from bubblegum pop to classical piano to the passionate catharsis of punk rock is at first the key to being a girl, and then the means of escape from all that, a way to talk to boys and a way to do without them. School reports and diary entries reveal the girl behind them, searching for an identity through the sounds that compelled her generation. Crushing on Donny Osmond and his shiny teeth, disco dancing in four-inch wedge heels and sparkly eye shadow, being mesmerized by Joy Division's suicidally brilliant Ian Curtis. Greenlaw has written a razor-sharp remembrance of childhood and adolescence filtered through the art that strikes us at the most visceral level of all.

Aladdin and the Boss Cockie Randolph Bedford, 1920 Gunner and Land Girl Steve Orwin, 2011-04-01 Bob and Connie were just eighteen and sixteen when they met and started walking to work together. They got to know each other well enough in the year and a half before World War II started to stay together through the uncertainties and separation of war. They married when Bob was on leave in 1945. The two were just embarking on their adult lives when war began dramatically changing their expectations and experiences. This is their story, or rather how two stories became one despite the intervening six years of danger and hardship.

Connie joined the Land Army to work on a farm while Bob went to France with the Royal Artillery He was evacuated from Dunkirk and then spent the rest of the war as a gunner on merchant shipping which took him around the world and into some tight spots Connie s story is a fascinating account of life in and around a farm where she was the only woman doing farm work She became expert at driving a tractor and bulldozer which contrasted greatly from her previous office job Bob s historical account tells of his travels and experiences during the war He was attacked from the air and torpedoed by a submarine He sailed across the Atlantic to Iceland and around the Mediterranean whilst serving on fishing boats tankers and munitions ships Both accounts provide personal insights into public events during the war years Steve Orwin feels privileged to share his parents stories This first time author lives in Sittingbourne Kent Littell's Living Age ,1887 Major and Minor William Edward Norris,1887 Things a Bright Girl Can Do Sally Nicholls,2017-09-07 Shortlisted for the Carnegie Medal 2019 National Book Award Books Are My Bag Readers Awards and the YA Book Prize Includes an exclusive preview of The Silent Stars Go By by Sally Nicholls Through rallies and marches in polite drawing rooms and freezing prison cells and the poverty stricken slums of the East End three courageous young women join the fight for the vote Evelyn is seventeen and though she is rich and clever she may never be allowed to follow her older brother to university Enraged that she is expected to marry her childhood sweetheart rather than be educated she joins the Suffragettes and vows to pay the ultimate price for women s freedom May is fifteen and already sworn to the cause though she and her fellow Suffragists refuse violence When she meets Nell a girl who s grown up in hardship she sees a kindred spirit Together and in love the two girls start to dream of a world where all kinds of women have their place But the fight for freedom will challenge Evelyn May and Nell more than they ever could believe As war looms just how much are they willing to sacrifice Herring Girl Debbie Taylor,2014-08-07 Set in a Tyneside fishing village Herring Girl moves effortlessly between 1898 and 2007 as twelve year old Ben finds himself the unlikely conduit for Annie a herring girl who lived and died a century earlier As Ben tries to unravel the puzzle of Annie s death he is drawn irresistibly into her long vanished world Bringing the startling story of Annie s life and curious death vividly to life this brilliantly realised historical mystery introduces a cast of unforgettable characters and reveals how the secrets of our past are never too far away Strand Magazine ,1916 Lady Glendonwyn James Grant,1881 The Smoking Book Lesley Stern,1999-12 An anthology of stories and essays on smoking how people start why they do it and the pleasures it offers One story describes a tobacco auction in Zimbabwe a major producer By the author of The Scorsese Connection The Strand Magazine Herbert Greenhough Smith,1916 Farm Boy, City Girl John "Gene" E.
