The Flame Alphabet

Justin D. Edwards

The Flame Alphabet:

The Flame Alphabet Ben Marcus, 2012-01-17 From one of the most innovative and important writers of his generation comes a brilliant mesmerizing dark new novel in which the speech of children is killing their parents Marcus's nightmarish vision is both completely alien and frighteningly familiar

Religious Imaging in Millennialist America Ashley Crawford, 2018-09-19 Ashley Crawford investigates how such figures as Ben Marcus Matthew Barney and David Lynch among other artists novelists and film directors utilize religious themes and images via Christianity Judaism and Mormonism to form essentially mutated variations of mainstream belief systems He seeks to determine what drives contemporary artists to deliver implicitly religious imagery within a secular context Particularly how religious heritage and language and the mutations within those have impacted American culture to partake in an aesthetic of apocalypticism that underwrites it

Dear Incomprehension Stéphane Vanderhaeghe, 2024-03-12 This book tackles a broad swath of contemporary literature currently labeled speculative fiction A blurring of genres that includes science fiction modern fairy tales and avant garde experimental fiction these works are extremely popular but also derive from highly sophisticated philosophical and aesthetic sensibilities ones that call into question and uproot the very foundations of stories and storytelling Because such fictions subvert most conventional narrative devices plot recognizable characters verisimilitude logic legibility they deliberately confound almost any kind of conventional reading and criticism To do such a literature justice the traditional frameworks of literary criticism fail and Dear Incomprehension is more of an extended philosophical essay than it is a traditional work of criticism as oblique and unconventional in its voice tone and methods as the texts it illuminates

Narrating Life - Experiments with Human and Animal Bodies in Literature, Science and Art, 2016-02-02 Narrating Life explores the relationship between literature science and the arts and the way in which they are informed by the process of narrating life More specifically it asks how do literature science and the arts affect and are affected by the emergence of a critical culture of biopolitics and its rhetorical figurations Its topicality for literary and cultural studies lies therefore in its exploration of the question to what extent could narratives of life or life writing be understood as a special practice through which to access the contemporary discussion about biopolitics with its strategies of immunity mutation and contagion The individual contributions address these questions through focusing on new forms of life writing in traditional and new media science writing and artistic and critical creative practice In doing so they also explore and redraw the boundaries between fictional and factual experimental practices Contributors Amelie Björck Elisabeth Friis Holly Henry Stefan Herbrechter Tom Idema Moritz Ingwersen Cristina Iuli Tanja Nusser Angela Rawlings Manuela Rossini Dorion Sagan Laura Shackelford Amalie Smith Marianne Sommer Steve Tomasula David Wagner Jeff Wallace Dominik Zechner

Grotesque Progeny Mark Heimermann, 2024-11-20 In contemporary Western society childhood appears more protected than ever to the casual onlooker Yet we are increasingly fascinated by narratives in which children are depicted as unsettling beings both dangerous and endangered sometimes chaotic or even evil In Grotesque Progeny: The Commodification of Dangerous and Endangered Children author Mark Heimermann argues that these representations reflect cultural anxiety regarding a shifting conception of youths from emotional assets to economic ones In the early to mid twentieth century children who had previously been viewed in part as economic investments were largely moved out of the work force For decades children were instead valued primarily as emotional assets However the rise of neoliberal capitalism in the 1970s and 1980s and its eventual proliferation throughout our politics and our lives has led to the widespread commodification of social arenas previously kept separate from the capitalist quest for profit Not even children have escaped being objectified and dehumanized in this manner Heimermann examines a variety of texts that center on children and adolescents who are marked as different from the adult characters and consequently viewed as grotesque Chapters cover Jeff Lemire's Sweet Tooth M R Carey's The Girl with All the Gifts Katherine Dunn's Geek Love Richard Starkings's Elephantmen Kazuo Ishiguro's Never Let Me Go and more Because the young characters are not viewed as equal members of society they must either strike back at those who commodify them or risk facing a lifetime of dehumanization Grotesque Progeny argues that these monstrous depictions reveal societal unease over shortsighted economic and political thinking the exploitation of children and the changing nature of childhood The book addresses a growing concern over which spaces ought to be excluded or removed from the harsh valuations of neoliberalism

The book draws attention to the traditions of systems theory in their historical development especially as related to the humanities and social sciences and shows how from these traditions various contemporary developments have ensued It provides a guide for strains of thought that are key to understanding 20th century intellectual life in many areas

Neoliberalism and Contemporary Literary Culture Mitchum Huehls, Rachel Greenwald Smith, 2017-09-19 How has the pervasive spread of free market thinking affected contemporary literature Neoliberalism has been a buzzword in literary studies for well over a decade but its meaning remains ambiguous and its salience contentious In Neoliberalism and Contemporary Literary Culture Mitchum Huehls and Rachel Greenwald Smith offer a wide ranging exploration of contemporary literature through the lens of neoliberalism's economic social and cultural ascendancy Bringing together accessible and provocative essays from top literary scholars this innovative collection examines neoliberalism's influence on literary theory and methodology literary form literary representation and literary institutions A four phase approach to the historical emergence of neoliberalism from the early 1970s to the present helps to clarify the complexity of the relationship between neoliberalism and literary culture Layering that history over the diverse changes in a US Anglo literary field that has moved away from postmodern forms and sensibilities the book argues that many literary developments including the return to realism the rise of the memoir the embrace of New Materialist theory and the pursuit of aesthetic autonomy make more coherent sense when viewed in light of neoliberalism's ever increasing expansion into the cultural sphere The essays gathered here engage a diverse range of theorists including Michel Foucault Wendy Brown Giorgio Agamben Bruno Latour Maurice Merleau Ponty Gary Becker and Eve Sedgwick to address the reciprocal relationship between neoliberalism and conceptual fields such as biopolitics affect phenomenology ecology and new materialist ontology These theoretical perspectives are complemented by innovative readings of contemporary works of literature by writers such as Jennifer Egan Ben Lerner Gillian Flynn Teju Cole Jonathan Franzen Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie Salvador Plascencia E L James Lisa Robertson Kenneth Goldsmith and many others Neoliberalism and Contemporary Literary Culture is essential reading for anyone invested in the ever changing state of literary culture

The Oracle Of Tarot Ann Davies, 2021-01-14 Tarot divination is not fortune telling The practice of fortune telling is based on the false notion that human life is governed by luck chance fate or obscure powers at work outside the personality True divination rests upon the occult truth that the causes of all events in human life are really internal proceeding from the Cause of Causes the Universal Intelligent Energy or Life power which is the Source Mover and Knower behind all the phenomena of the universe

The Age of Wire and String Ben Marcus, 2013-05-02 In The Age of Wire and String Ben Marcus welds together a new reality from the scrapheap of the past Dogs birds horses automobiles and the weather are some of the recycled elements in Marcus's first collection part fiction part handbook as familiar objects take on markedly unfamiliar meanings Gradually this makeshift world in its defiance of the laws of physics and language finds a foundation in its own implausibility as Marcus produces new feelings and sensations both comic and disturbing in the definitive guide to an unpredictable yet exhilarating plane of existence Postprint N. Katherine Hayles, 2021-02-16 Since Gutenberg's time every aspect of print has gradually changed. But the advent of computational media has exponentially increased the pace, transforming how books are composed, designed, edited, typeset, distributed, sold, and read. N. Katherine Hayles traces the emergence of what she identifies as the postprint condition, exploring how the interweaving of print and digital technologies has changed not only books but also language, authorship, and what it means to be human. Hayles considers the ways in which print has been enmeshed in literate societies and how these are changing as some of the cognitive tasks once performed exclusively by humans are now carried out by computational media. Interpretations and meaning-making practices circulate through transindividual collectivities created by interconnections between humans and computational media, which Hayles calls cognitive assemblages. Her theoretical framework conceptualizes innovations in print technology as redistributions of cognitive capabilities between humans and machines. Humanity is becoming computational, just as computational systems are edging toward processes once thought of as distinctively human. Books in all their diversity are also in the process of becoming computational, representing a crucial site of ongoing cognitive transformations. Hayles details the consequences for the humanities through interviews with scholars and university press professionals and considers the cultural implications in readings of two novels, The Silent History and The Word Exchange, that explore the postprint condition. Spanning fields including book studies, cultural theory, and media archaeology, Postprint is a strikingly original consideration of the role of computational media in the ongoing evolution of humanity.

The Lost Child in Literature and Culture Mark Froud, 2017-10-18 This book is an extensive study of the figure of the lost child in English-speaking and European literature and culture. It argues that the lost child figure is of profound importance for our society, a symptom as well as a cause of deep trauma. This trauma or void is a fundamental disruption of the structures that define us: self, history, and even language. This puts the figure of the child in context with previous research that the modern conception of a child was formed alongside modern conceptions of memory. The book analyses the representation of the lost child through fairy tales, historical oppression, and in recent novels and films. The book then studies the connection of the lost child figure with the uncanny and its centrality to language. The book considers the lost child figure as an archetype on a metaphysical and philosophical level as well as cultural.

The Post-Soviet Politics of Utopia Mikhail Suslov, Per-Arne Bodin, 2019-09-19 More than 700 utopian novels are published in Russia every year. These utopias, meaning here fantasy, fiction, science fiction, space operas, or alternative history, do not set out merely to titillate; instead, they express very real Russian anxieties: be they territorial, right-sizing, loss of imperial status, or turning into a colony of the West. Contributors to this innovative collection use these narratives to re-examine post-Soviet Russian political culture and identity. Interrogating the intersections of politics, ideologies, and fantasies, chapters draw together the highbrow literary mainstream authors such as Vladimir Sorokin, mass literature for entertainment, and individuals who bridge the gap between fiction writers and intellectuals or ideologists Aleksandr Prokhanov for example the editor in chief of Russia's far right newspaper Zavtra In the process The Post Soviet Politics of Utopia sheds crucial light onto a variety of debates including the rise of nationalism right wing populism imperial revanchism the complicated presence of religion in the public sphere the function of language and is important reading for anyone interested in the heightened importance of ideas myths alternative histories and conspiracy theories in Russia today
