Krepps,Geoff St Reynard,2011-06 One big name per story is usually considered to be sufficient So when two of them appear in one by line it can certainly be called a scoop so that's what we'll call it. H. L. Gold and science fiction go together like a blonde and a henna rinse. Robert Krepps is also big time. You may know him also under his other label Geoff St. Reynard, but a Krepps by any name can write as well. H. L. Gold is mostly remembered nowadays as the editor who started Galaxy. But there's a weird perspective thing that happens in publishing where folks mistake the editor for the work he acquires. Gold was a very, very good acquiring editor, but as a writer, well, his career didn't survive his leaving Galaxy. Krepps, though, had real talent. We've reissued two books he had serialized under the St. Reynard name. He should have had a heck of a career.

The Enormous Room The Green Eyed Stores is a 1922 autobiographical novel by the poet and novelist E. E. Cummings about his temporary imprisonment in France during World War I. Cummings served as an ambulance driver during the war. In late August 1917, his friend and colleague William Slater Brown, known in the book only as B, was arrested by French authorities as a result of anti-war sentiments B had expressed in some letters. When questioned, Cummings stood by his friend and was also arrested. While Cummings was in captivity at La Fert Mac, his father received an erroneous letter to the effect that his son had been lost at sea. The cable was later rescinded, but the subsequent lack of information on his son's whereabouts left the elder Cummings distraught. Meanwhile, Cummings and B had the bad luck to be transported to La Fert only five days after the local commissioners in charge of reviewing cases for trial and pardon had left, and the commissioners were not expected back until November. When they finally did arrive, they agreed to allow Cummings, as an official suspect, a supervised release in the remote commune of Oloron-Sainte-Marie. Great Value.
