Contribute to Job and Corporate Performance Gordon D. Shand,HDC Human Development Consultants,2012-06 One of the major differences between average work and exemplary work is the ability to know what s important Supervisors and workers need a practical way of understanding their business organization to be able to focus their efforts effectively and make good decisions in the organization's best interest. JobThink addresses the question: What's important to the job and organization? A model focusing on key constituents' elements/components such as tasks, technology, and corporate objectives of an organization is used to focus one's thinking about the organization and job. JobThink explains each constituent and the interrelationship between constituents. Uses of resources are also explained. JobThink also addresses how your work affects others and vice versa. A problem-solving strategy that you can apply to your job is also explained. A Job Aid lists the thinking questions you can use to focus your efforts in ways that contribute to job and business success and help you make decisions in your company's best interests. Learning activities help you apply the strategies to your work and home environment.

The Exemplary Worker Gordon D Shand, 2014-10-01 SafeThink is a very versatile and effective cognitive-based strategy you can use on the fly at work at home while driving or on vacation to prevent illness and injury. When you apply the structured thinking strategy, you will be more vigilant and focused on your work and surroundings. You will learn a set of hierarchical questions to quickly identify, predict, and control hazardous situations throughout the day. SafeThink also provides a structured thinking strategy to ask "What if" questions to predict what can go wrong. Learning activities help you apply the thinking strategy to your work and workplace. A Job Aid lists the thinking questions to prevent you and others from harm. Think ahead.

How to Be an Exemplary Employee Vasconcelos CAB, 2018-11-20 There are over three billion people who work for companies worldwide, and despite the financial recession, the number of employed people continues to grow. When we think of these people, the focus is almost always on how they can become more independent or entrepreneurs. My book suggests something different. I propose a positive view of the potential that employees have within a company. The advice described, once implemented, can improve the performance of any professional in any field. Since I started on the journey to work for myself a few years back, I realised that we are all employees. It doesn't matter if you own a business or work for someone; you can make a difference in your work place.
