

The Background.

- In February 2015 three 15-year-old British schoolgirls - Amira Abaze, Shamima Begum and Kadaza Sultana - who attended the Bethnal Green Academy in London, left London to join the Islamic State in Syria.
- Ten days after arriving in Syria, Begum married Dutch-born Yago Riedijk.
- She gave birth to three children, all of whom died young, and all of whom were British citizens.
- Her youngest child was born in a refugee camp in February 2019 but died of a lung infection in March 2019.
- In news reports, Shamima was described as being an 'enforcer' in Islamic State's morality police, and allegedly tried to recruit other young women to join the group.

The Deprivation of Citizenship

- In February 2019, the Home Secretary notified Shamima that he intended to deprive her of her British citizenship.
- The stated reason for the decision was that Shamima was "a British/Bangladeshi dual national who it is assessed had previously travelled to Syria and aligned with ISIL", and that "[i]t is assessed that [her] return to the UK would present a risk to the national security of the [UK]".
- The Secretary of State said that his decision had been taken partly in reliance on information which, in his view, should not be made public in the interests of national security and in the public interest.
