

4-Pole design. All magnets in the 12:00 and 6:00 positions fire at the same time, pushing apart with great force, to cause the Rotor shaft to turn. This motor can be run in forward or reverse. This is our first prototype model and can be scaled up or down to any desired Hp you like. Of course one can improve on this design, see our #362- RC plans. We made it simple in design for those who are not educated in the art of Electric Motor building and repair. It is a good idea to study a simple Science fair DC Motor etc... To get a basic understanding of DC Motor designs. A good source is your local Library.

All HV electromagnets are wired North Pole to North Pole. They can also be wired and timed to attract each other if you wish to make an attraction motor.

You will be using 2 - 4 spark plugs as high voltage switches, To send a DC high voltage to 4 coils at a time. You can design this engine any way you want or any shape you want, just as long as you keep to the main working principle. The motor can be as deep as you want to design it. If make the magnets or your air core magnets about 4 to 6" long, it will be much easier to turn on a slow rpm drill press. I find that wrapping the coil with #31 wire at about 150 rpms works best, 250 rpms is a little fast but can be done. We strongly suggest you first build a one Hp or less DC fuelless motor first.
