Abstract

This equipment has been tested and found to comply with the limits for a Class B digital device, pursuant to Part 15 of the FCC Rules. These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against harmful interference in a residential installation. This equipment generates, uses and can radiate radio frequency energy and, if not installed and used in accordance with the instructions, may cause harmful interference to radio communications. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in a particular installation. If this equipment does cause harmful interference to radio or television reception, the user can try to correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

12. Disconnect the antenna from the remaining antenna.
13. Increase the separation between the equipment and receiver.
14. Connect the equipment into an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
15. Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help.

FCC RF Radiation Exposure Statement Caution: This Equipment must be used so that it provides a maximum exposure of not more than 0.09 W/kg.

120. POWER SOURCES
The greatest source of the potential injury from this hazard is the electrical energy contained in the operating cable. If you use test leads of the type of power supply in your manual, consult other suppliers and manufacturers for more information. This should allow you to compare test leads and cables, or other accessories, with the operating instructions.
121. SAFETY PRECAUTIONS
To prevent the possibility of a shock, use a consistent safety method that has been proven by your training or your knowledge of the subject. This may not fit into the general safety rule you read today. This is a safety technique, and you cannot be too careful. You must know the subject, the measuring tool, the plug, the instrument, and the test circuit. Do not touch your test leads or the instrument while the circuit is energized.
122. FUNCTIONALITY OF THE INSTRUMENT
Every measuring device should be checked by the user. You can follow the manufacturer's instructions for the operation of your equipment. Some testing equipment is designed to operate at power, commercial frequencies, and has parts where they may not be safe.
123. SAFETY PRECAUTIONS
To protect your greatest source of a significant hazard, at least it is left unconnected and without its test leads. If you are using a test lead, make sure it is properly connected. This includes the connection to the circuit, the test lead, and the instrument. Make sure the connection is made to the correct lead.
124. POWER SOURCES
An available safety system should not be used as a safety system. In the case of a power source, this is the case. In the case of a power source, this is the case. In the case of a power source, this is the case.
125. SAFETY PRECAUTIONS
An unconnected test lead and a test lead connected to a circuit are a risk of a shock or a short circuit.
126. SAFETY PRECAUTIONS
Do not connect test leads and a test lead connected to a circuit are a risk of a shock or a short circuit.
