Prisoners of Time United States. National Education Commission on Time and Learning,1994 The Education Council Act of 1991 established the National Education Commission on Time and Learning as an independent advisory body and called for a comprehensive review of the relationship between time and learning in U S schools This document serves as a supplementary volume to the commission s first report released in May 1994 which found that most school reform designs are structurally flawed by their adherence to a traditional school calendar This volume describes innovative approaches to the use of school time It provides nearly 40 examples of exemplary efforts to make better use of available time and extend the amount of time students spend learning The brief program descriptions are from 15 elementary schools 15 middle and senior high schools 4 districtwide efforts and 6 special programs They include public and private schools in rural urban and suburban areas from 26 states Information for reaching contact persons is provided A review of the programs indicates that many different kinds of schools and districts have already implemented many of the commission s recommendations The most common approaches in descending order include 1 redesigning available time 2 employing technology 3 extending the school day or year 4 providing time for professional development and 5 providing support services for children or families Finally the approaches to the redesign of time usage differ by school level LMI

Research in Education ,1968-07 Yearbook American Association of School Administrators,1926 Normal Instructor and Teachers World ,1928 Primary Education ,1914 Telling Tales Over Time Joel Weiss,Robert S. Brown,2013-06-13 How do calendars and clocks influence considerations of school effectiveness From the creation of compulsory education to the future of virtual schooling Weiss and Brown trace two centuries of school practices policies and research linking the concept of time with opportunity to learn School calendars and clocks are shaped by both the physical and social worlds and the clock of schooling is shown to be one of the great clocks of society that helps to frame school effectiveness School time does not operate in a vacuum but within curriculum teaching and learning situations The phrase chrono curriculum was devised by the authors as a metaphor for exploring issues of school effectiveness within the time dimension Using American and Canadian sources stories are created to illustrate four themes about time and school effectiveness The first three stories utilize access attendance and testing as criteria associated with these eras of schooling How will the story read in the fourth era the digital age which forces us to a reconsideration of time and its influence on education Quoting David Berliner in his Foreword this is an opportune time for these authors to bring us insights into the reasons we in North America created our public school systems and how the chrono curriculum influences those systems The authors presentation of our educational past provides educators a chance to think anew about how we might do schooling in our own times
