

SHARPENING AND BALANCING BLADES

Turn mower on its side. Block blade by wedging any suitable object (such as the handle grip portion of a hammer) between blade and vertical wall in cutting (A).

Unscrew blade bolt. A sharp blow on the wrench with a hammer will be necessary.

Sharpen the cutting edge with a hand file or a bench grinder, following the original angle and contour. Check the balance of the blade after sharpening, by supporting the blade at its center on a horizontal knife-edge or a thin washer, using the center mounting hole as a guide (B). Continue to remove metal from the heavier end, until the blade balances on the knife-edge.

When re-mounting blade parts must be assembled in the exact order as shown in illustration.

Make sure the "D" hole in clutch washer fits on the adaptor. Sharp-cutting edge of blade should be facing down (toward ground).

GRASS BAG ASSEMBLY

TURN MOWER OFF WHEN REMOVING GRASS BAGS

Slip upper loop frame through opening located inside the bag at the top of the zipper opening (A). Connect loop ends and slide tips of upper frame through zipper opening and into bag. Slide lower elastic opening of bag 4 inches behind tips of upper loop frame (B).

Slide upper loop frame to lower frame by sliding ends of upper loop frame over the tube ends of lower frame (C). Be sure that the "Sunbeam" on the bag mesh is in the correct position as illustrated.

Slide the elastic opening in the end of the bag over the hooks on end of the lower frame (D) as shown. Be sure three projections at top of frame opening are left in place.

4. Place top of lower frame under mounting bracket on mower. Allow the bottom of the lower mounting frame to rest on the deck of the mower (E).

CAUTION. Have a competent serviceman make a thorough inspection of mower at least once a year. Keep mower free from accumulations of grass, excessive grease. An accumulation of these combustible materials may fire.

LAWN CARE

SPRING

CLEAN-UP. Use the mower and Easy Tatch grass bag to remove debris from your lawn, however, rocks, glass, and metal fragments and other objects that can damage your equipment or be thrown by blade should always be picked up. Cut height of cut to clip approximately one-half to three-quarters of the height of the grass. Clean up and cut the lawn. This results in an early green-up and growth starts. A lack of mowing encourages weeds to become spring growth.

AERATING. Using a mechanical aerator perforates your lawn and encourages moderate watering to encourage growth, water, fertilizer, and oxygen to reach the roots.

FERTILIZATION. A complete fertilizer containing phosphorus and potash should be applied. The fertilizer should contain approximately 10 to 15% phosphorus and 5 to 6% potash. Fertilizer should be applied at the rate of approximately 20 pounds per 1,000 square feet. Exact soil requirements can be determined by you or a local soil testing station.

WATERING. Good watering practices are important in obtaining a healthy lawn. Deep watering when the grass needs it most (just before the roots start to grow) encourages deep rooting and at the same time discourages the growth of weeds.

MOWING. Frequent mowing is desirable in the maintenance of a healthy lawn. Frequent mowing should be done at least once a week. For best results, mow often enough to prevent removing more than one-third of the grass blade. Thin or newly seeded lawns should be mowed at two inches on warm seasons and four to five weeks to encourage a dense lawn.

WEED, DISEASE, AND INSECT CONTROL. Specific chemicals for the control of weeds, diseases, and insects are available at most garden centers. Follow the directions for use on the label.

SEEDING. Although fall is the preferred time, lawns may be seeded in the spring. During the summer months, continue to mow the lawn to catch weeds, weed seeds, and other objectional material.

PREPARATION OF THE LAWN FOR WINTER. A complete fertilizer, approximately four to six weeks before the onset of winter, is desirable. Early application insures adequate storage of nutrients for the coming year.

WATERING. Thorough, deep watering is recommended during the summer months as this will encourage weed growth and prevent further infestation of the area. Avoid cutting the lawn during the summer months as this will encourage weed growth.

AERATING. If your lawn contains warm season grasses (Bermuda, etc.) the use of a mechanical aerator would be desirable during the summer months. During the summer months, periodic fertilization on Bermuda and other warm season grasses is recommended.

SEEDING. Fall is the preferred time for the seeding of new lawns and established lawns with sparse growth.

WATERING. This is as important in fall as it is in spring. Follow aeration and fertilization of the soil. This season new lawns and established lawns with sparse growth.

SEEDING. Fall is the preferred time for the seeding of new lawns and established lawns with sparse growth.
