Summary of the Study

Study Design: A cross-sectional study was conducted among 1000 participants aged 18-65 years.

Data Collection: Data were collected through a series of questionnaires covering demographic information, lifestyle factors, and health status.

Analysis: The data were analyzed using descriptive statistics and logistic regression models to identify risk factors associated with the outcome variable.

Results: The results showed that certain demographic and lifestyle factors were significantly associated with the outcome variable.

Conclusion: The findings suggest that specific interventions targeting these risk factors could potentially reduce the prevalence of the condition being studied.
