Invisible Martyrs Farhana Qazi, 2018-09-25 Farhana Qazi draws on her background as a pioneering counterterrorism professional and a devout Muslim to offer an insider's view of what drives girls and women to join radical Islamic movements and how we can keep them from making this terrible choice The first Muslim woman to work for the US government's Counterterrorism Center Qazi found herself fascinated even obsessed by the phenomenon of female extremists Why she wondered would a girl from Denver join ISIS a radical movement known for its mistreatment of women Why would a teenage Iraqi girl strap on a suicide bomb and detonate it From Kashmir to Iraq to Afghanistan to Colorado to London she discovered women of different backgrounds who all had their own reason for joining these movements Some were confused others had been taken advantage of and some were just as radical and dedicated as their male counterparts But in each case Qazi found their choices were driven by a complex interaction of culture context and capability that was unique to each woman This book reframes their stories so readers can see these girls and women as they truly are females exploited by men Through hearing their voices and sharing their journeys Qazi gained powerful insights not only into what motivated these women but also into the most effective ways to combat terrorism and about herself as well Through them Qazi writes I discovered intervention strategies that are slowly helping women hold on to faith as they struggle with versions of orthodox Islam polluted by extremist interpretations And in the process I discovered a gentle Islam and more about myself as a woman of faith

Media Ownership in Africa in the Digital Age Winston Mano,Loubna El Mkaouar,2022-10-24 Who owns the media and communications in Africa today and with what implications The book elegantly answers this urgent question by unpacking multiple dimensions of media ownership through rare and authoritative perspectives including both historical and contemporary digital developments It traces the evolving forms of ownership of media and communications in specific African contexts showing how they interact with broader changes in and outside the continent The book also shows how Big Techs such as Meta formerly known as Facebook are involved in a scramble for Africa s digital ecosystem and how their advance brings both opportunities and concerns about ownership and control The chapters analyse evolving forms of ownership and their implications on media concentration and democracy across Africa The book offers a nuanced account of how media ownership structures are in some instances captured with an ever growing and complex ecosystem that also has new opportunities for public interest media Offering a significant representation of the trends and diversity of existing media systems the book goes beyond the postcolonial geographical divisions of North and Sub Saharan Africa to highlight common patterns and significant similarities and differences of communications ownerships between and within African countries The contributors expose media and communications ownership patterns in Africa that are centralised and yet decentralising and in some cases battling resurging and globalising

When the Fences Come Down Genevieve Siegel-Hawley,2016-04-12 How we provide equal educational opportunity to an increasingly diverse highly urbanized student population is one of the central concerns facing our nation As Genevieve Siegel Hawley argues in this thought provoking book within our metropolitan areas we are currently allowing a labyrinthine system of school district boundaries to divide students and opportunities along racial and economic lines Rather than confronting these realities though most contemporary educational policies focus on improving schools by raising academic standards holding teachers and students accountable through test performance and promoting private sector competition Siegel Hawley takes us into the heart of the metropolitan South to explore what happens when communities instead focus squarely on overcoming the educational divide between city and suburb Based on evidence from metropolitan school desegregation efforts in Richmond Virginia Louisville Kentucky Charlotte Mecklenburg North Carolina and Chattanooga Tennessee between 1990 and 2010 Siegel Hawley uses quantitative methods and innovative mapping tools both to underscore the damages wrought by school district boundary lines and to raise awareness about communities that have sought to counteract them She shows that city suburban school desegregation policy is related to clear measurable progress on both school and housing desegregation. Revisiting educational policies that in many cases were abruptly halted or never begun, this book will spur an open conversation about the creation of the healthy integrated schools and communities critical to our multiracial future. The American Legal Profession Christopher P. Banks, 2017-06-21 While emphasizing that lawyers fulfill a vital but often misunderstood public function in society, The American Legal Profession: The Myths and Realities of Practicing Law by Christopher P. Banks dispels some of the common misconceptions about the legal profession to show that the reality of being a lawyer is much different from what many students believe it to be. Many students know little about what law school is like or how it differs from undergraduate study, and this book corrects common myths about graduating law school and life after passing the bar. This brief primer is a nuts and bolts analysis of what it is really like to go into the legal profession from start to finish, giving students considering a career in law a realistic overview of their potential legal careers. Pushout Monique Couvson, 2018-01-16 The powerful Michelle Alexander exploration of the harsh and harmful experiences confronting Black girls in schools and how we can instead orient schools toward their flourishing. On the day fifteen year old Diamond from the Bay Area stopped going to school, she was expelled for lashing out at peers who constantly harassed and teased her for something everyone on the staff had missed: she was being trafficked for sex. After months on the run, she was arrested and sent to a detention center for violating a court order to attend school. In a work that Lisa Delpit calls imperative reading, Monique W. Morris chronicles the experiences of Black girls across the country whose complex lives are misunderstood, highly judged by teachers, administrators, and the justice system, and degraded by the very institutions charged with helping them flourish. Painting a chilling picture of the plight of Black girls and women today, The Atlantic Morris exposes a world of confined potential and supports the rising movement to challenge the policies, practices, and cultural illiteracy that push countless students out of school and into unhealthy, unstable, and often unsafe futures. At a moment when Black girls are the fastest growing population in the juvenile justice system, Pushout is truly a book for everyone who cares about children.
