Scriptures, Etc James GARNER (Writer on the Bible.),1866 Jack London Earle Labor,2013-12-24 A revelatory look at the life of the great American author and how it shaped his most beloved works Jack London was born a working class fatherless Californian in 1876 In his youth he was a boundlessly energetic adventurer on the bustling West Coast an oyster pirate a hobo a sailor and a prospector by turns He spent his brief life rapidly accumulating the experiences that would inform his acclaimed bestselling books The Call of the Wild White Fang and The Sea Wolf The bare outlines of his story suggest a classic rags to riches tale but London the man was plagued by contradictions He chronicled nature at its most savage but wept helplessly at the deaths of his favorite animals At his peak the highest paid writer in the United States he was nevertheless forced to work under constant pressure for money An irrepressibly optimistic crusader for social justice and a lover of humanity he was also subject to spells of bitter invective especially as his health declined Branded by shortsighted critics as little more than a hack who produced a couple of memorable dog stories he left behind a voluminous literary legacy much of it ripe for rediscovery In Jack London An American Life the noted Jack London scholar Earle Labor explores the brilliant and complicated novelist lost behind the myth at once a hard living globe trotter and a man alive with ideas whose passion for seeking new worlds to explore never waned until the day he died Returning London to his proper place in the American pantheon Labor resurrects a major American novelist in his full fire and glory Montana, Its Story and

Literature Katherine Fusco,2016-03-17 Typically studies of early cinema s relation to literature have focused on the interactions between film and modernism When film first emerged however it was naturalism not modernism competing for the American public s attention In this media ecosystem the cinema appeared alongside the works of authors including Charlotte Perkins Gilman Jack London and Frank Norris Drawing on contemporaneous theories of time and modernity as well as recent scholarship on film narrative and naturalism this book moves beyond traditional adaptation studies approaches to argue that both naturalism and the early cinema intervened in the era s varying experiments with temporality and time management Specifically it shows that American naturalist novels are constructed around a sustained formal and thematic interrogation of the relationship between human freedom and temporal inexorability and that the early cinema developed its norms in the context of naturalist experiments with time The book identifies the silent cinema and naturalist novel s shared privileging of narrative progress over character development as a symbolic solution to social and aesthetic concerns ranging from systems of representation to historiography labor reform miscegenation and birth control This volume thus establishes the dynamic exchange between silent film and naturalism arguing that in the products of this exchange personality figures as excess bogging down otherwise efficient narratives of progress Considering naturalist authors and a diverse range of early film genres this is the first book length study of the reciprocal media exchanges that took place when the cinema was new It will be a valuable resource to those with interests in Adaptation Studies American Literature Film History Literary Naturalism Modernism and Narrative Theory The Chautauquan ,1913 The Dial Francis Fisher Browne,1914
