

COMPASS MANUAL

MIRROR SIGHTING COMPASSES

HOW TO NAVIGATE

ORIENTING THE MAP TO NORTH

The easiest way to use a map and compass together is to orient the map towards North. Simply align the map meridians with the compass needle so that "up" on the map is pointing North. Now everything on the map is in the same direction as on the ground. When travelling along your route, remember to keep the map oriented at all times. By doing this it will be very easy to follow your route since turning right on the map also means turning right on the ground! Properly orienting the map is quick, easy and the best way to avoid unnecessary mistakes during your trip!

EASY AS 1-2-3

THE SILVA 1-2-3 SYSTEM

1-2-3

Place your compass on the map and use the compass to make a straight line between your current position and your destination.

Make sure the part with the mirror points towards your destination.

1-2-3

Turn the compass housing until the red part of the north/south arrow is parallel with the map meridians and points north on the map.

1-2-3

Lift your compass from the map and hold it horizontally in your hand. Turn yourself and the compass until the red end of the compass needle is inside the red compass housing. Now the sighting cross and sight will point towards your destination. Take a landmark and start moving.

When using a mirror sighting compass, hold the compass with the mirror tilted to a 45° angle, so that you can check your direction by looking at the part in the mirror when sighting in the correct direction of travel.

MAGNETIC DECLINATION

When compass and map are used together it's important to know the local magnetic declination and how to take for it. Magnetic declination is the difference between Geographical North/True North (where the map meridians point) and Magnetic North (where the North end of the compass needle points). In areas with significant declination, adjustments must be made to walk a correct bearing. Information concerning the amount and direction of magnetic declination is shown on topographic maps with a diagram. Use an up-to-date map for current declination.

Declination can be handled either with a fixed declination scale or declination adjustment in the compass capsule. Read more further down in this manual.

BEFORE HEADING OUT

- Always check that your compass is functioning properly before heading out.
- Never expose your compass to extreme temperatures (high or low) or to magnetic fields such as knives, mobile phones, radio speakers, magnets etc. Such exposure can cause permanent damage to the compass.

BASIC COMPASS FEATURES

MIRROR SIGHTING COMPASSES

The mirror compass features a mirror that allows you to view the compass dial and the background at the same time. The fact that the compass dial can be seen at the same time the reference point is aligned makes mirror compasses more desirable for taking accurate bearings.

A mirror-sighting compass is at its best in open terrain where you must determine direction over long distances. Because you needn't lift your eyes from the compass in order to look into the terrain, the direction determined with the Silva 1-2-3 System® becomes more accurate.
