

The background of the entire image is a high-contrast, sepia-toned photograph of a rugged mountain landscape. A massive, dark rock formation dominates the right side, sloping steeply upwards. At the very top of this formation, two small figures of people are visible, standing on a narrow ledge. The rest of the mountain face is covered in lighter-colored, textured rock and snow, with deep shadows and highlights that emphasize its craggy texture.

James Salter Jeffrey Meyers, 2024-02-07 Biographer and critic Jeffrey Meyers knew the novelist James Salter 1925-2015 during the last decade of his life; he visited him twice on Long Island and received eighty letters from him. Meyers's knowledge of Salter's life provides many new insights about the personal, literary, and historical background of his work. This appreciative book, the first full-length study in twenty-six years, is intended to introduce Salter to new readers and show his achievement as a writer of novels, stories, screenplays, memoirs, and travel essays. Salter had an extraordinary range of experience: as West Point graduate, fighter pilot in the Korean War, downhill skier, rock climber, and mountain climber; screenwriter and film director; connoisseur of food and wine; world traveler and sophisticated observer. In an elegant blend of literary criticism and intimate memoir, with crisp prose and an eye for telling detail, Meyers discusses Salter's family and friends, the significance of his book and chapter titles, characters' names, and cultural allusions, literary influences (especially Ernest Hemingway and F. Scott Fitzgerald), development of his fictional style and techniques, awareness of weather and light, supreme delineation of sexual ecstasy, recurrent themes of war and love, strange career, and late recognition. A detailed
