Creating the New African University ,2023-05-25 Creating the New African University grapples with the existence of African universities particularly in post independent Africa where Higher Education Institutions HEIs are supposed to live up to the expectations of being adaptive in dealing with prevalent complex dynamic contemporary and future challenges facing African societies The book tackles the issue of what ought to be done for African universities to maintain a structure and identity that ensures their relevance in Africa s development through generating and transforming knowledge into actions for the common good It engages issues within the context of how post colonial transformative obligations have been managed in light of the prevalent epistemological and pedagogical underpinnings that form the foundations of these universities as they seek to break from the clutches of colonial legacies This book further highlights an urgent need to do away with silos and embrace a multidisciplinary interdisciplinary transdisciplinary and cross disciplinary dialogical approach towards knowledge generation Such an approach is essential in efforts aimed at enhancing the sustainable reconfiguration of university structures and functions whilst linking knowledge produced to diverse social economic and political facets of African societies in ways that promote and sustain competitiveness in a rapidly globalising world beset with technological

Youth and Higher Education in Africa. The Cases of Cameroon, South Africa, Eritrea and Zimbabwe Donald P.
Chimankire,2009 Student activism in Africa at least since the early 1990s has been preoccupied with popular struggles for democracy in both their respective countries and institutions of higher learning The changing socio economic and political conditions in many African countries characterized by the decline in economic growth and the introduction of multi party politics among several other factors have had different impact on students and student political organizations in African universities This book recounts the responses of students to these changes in their attempt to negotiate better living and studying conditions The four case studies contained in the book Cameroon South Africa Zimbabwe and Eritrea clearly reveal the very important aspects of the situation in which African students find themselves in many countries and underscores the need to understand the character and development of higher education on the continent. Ministers of Higher Education, Vice Chancellors, Deans of Students, Student Unions and parents will find this book very useful in terms of understanding the tensions that often arise at institutions of higher learning and why solutions seem to be elusive.

Social Justice and Education in the 21st Century Willie Pearson Jr., Vijay Reddy, 2021-04-10 The world is not an equal place. There are high and low income countries and high and low income households. For each group there are differential educational opportunities leading to differential educational outcomes and differential labor market opportunities. This pattern often reproduces the privileges and inequalities of groups in a society. This book explores this differentiation in education from a social justice lens. Comparing the United States and South Africa, this book analyzes each country's developmental thinking on education from human capital and human rights approaches in both primary and higher education. The enclosed contributions draw from different disciplines including legal studies, sociology, psychology, computer science and public policy.

The Next Twenty-five Years David Lee Featherman, Marvin Krislov, Martin Hall, 2009-12-18 A must read for anyone who cares about the future of higher education in diverse democracies.

Government Managing Risk Bruce Chapman, 2006-09-27 Higher education rates are increasing throughout the Western world yet at the same time government budgets face increasing constraints. This has ensured that the importance of student support is recognized in many countries. In recent years there has been a world wide movement towards the use of income contingent loans (ICL) for higher education. ICLs are now used in six countries following the Australian innovation of 1989 with the governments of many more countries looking very seriously at the model. This impressive new book by Bruce Chapman analyzes ICLs particularly their use in supporting students exploring the experiences of a number of other countries adopting them. Chapman presents analysis of a number of disparate case studies to illustrate how ICLs can aid risk management policy reforming in both progressive and administratively feasible ways. This book describes, examines and promotes an exciting new role for the public sector as a manager of risk and argues that ICLs have enormous potential to change the extent and nature of social and economic activities. With the author's experience in the design and implementation of the Australian student financial support schemes, this is a knowledgeable, informative and enlightening book that will be useful to researchers, students and policy makers alike.

Student Financing of Higher Education Donald Heller, Claire Callender, 2013-06-07 The financing of higher education is undergoing great change in many countries around the world In recent years many countries are moving from a system where the costs of funding higher education are shouldered primarily by taxpayers through government subsidies to one where students pay a larger share of the costs There are a number of factors driving these trends including A push for massification of higher education in the recognition that additional revenue streams are required above and beyond those funds available from governments in order to achieve higher participation rates Macroeconomic factors which lead to constraints on overall government revenues Political factors which manifest in demands for funding of over services thus restricting the funding available for higher tertiary education A concern that the returns to higher education accrue primarily to the individual rather than to society and thus students should bear more of the burden of paying for it This volume will help to contribute to an understanding of how these trends occur in various countries and regions around the world and the impact they have on higher education institutions students and society as a whole With contributions for the UK USA South Africa and China this vital new book gives a truly global picture of the rapidly changing situation

Discrimination in an Unequal World Miguel Angel Centeno, Katherine S. Newman, 2010-09 Is globalization making our world more equal or less Proponents of globalization argue that it is helping and that in a competitive world no one can afford to discriminate except on the basis of skills Opponents counter that globalization does nothing but provide a meritocratic patina on a consistently unequal distribution of opportunity Yet despite the often deafening volume of the debate there is surprisingly little empirical work available on the extent to which the process of globalization over the past quarter century has had any effect on discrimination Tackling this challenge Discrimination in an Unequal World explores the relationship between discrimination and unequal outcomes in the appropriate geographical and historical context Noting how each society tends to see its particular version of discrimination as universal and obvious the editors expand their set of cases to include a broad variety of social relations and practices However since methods differ and are often designed for particular national circumstances they set the much more ambitious and practical goal of establishing a base with which different forms of discrimination across the world can be compared Derived from a broad array of methods the book draws many important lessons on the new means by which the world creates social hierarchies the democratization of inequality and the disappearance of traditional categories

Rosa,Hans Vossensteyn,2007-11-23 Higher education finances lie at the crossroads in many Western countries Hence worldwide the most common approach to the need for increasing revenue was to use some form or forms of cost sharing or the shift of some of the higher educational per student costs from governments and taxpayers to parents and students This raises several important challenges to higher education systems First there is the political and social controversy associated with most forms of cost sharing particularly with tuition fees Secondly there are important issues in terms of the broad context of social policy such as the role of families and students and the relationship that the state establishes with each of them Third there is the comparison of alternative instruments of cost sharing and the direct and indirect effects of each of them notably in terms of educational equality Overall underlying cost sharing debates are fundamental questions about social choice individual opportunities and the role of government in society
