Step 1: Check for an Internet connection. Your Mac will use the connection that is available. If the network requires a wireless password, plug in the essential device. If you're using an external keyboard and trackpad, turn them on or plug them into your Mac. If using an external display, plug it in and turn it on as well, but don't connect the peripherals. And of course, plug in your Mac. If you've read a trackpad before, here's a tip: To lock down a tap on the trackpad surface, turn on your Mac's Motion Tracking. When you turn on the computer, the window that appears is the Setup Assistant. Use the Setup Assistant. A series of windows will guide you through the setup. If you've already have a Personal or Personal ID, use the Mac's Personal ID on your Mac. We recommend that you turn on FileVault, iCloud Keychain, and Find My Mac. You can also let the system transfer information from your computer to Time Machine backup and the Migration Assistant. You'll be asked to create a new user account for your computer. You'll need to provide information to log in to your Mac. Some certain settings and software checks are required. When the setup is finished, you'll see the Finder window with a menu bar at the top of the screen and the desktop. Click the Store icon in the Dock at the bottom of your screen. After your software is updated, you can connect your printers and other peripherals and begin using your Mac. Migration Assistant will help you transfer data from your old Mac to your new Mac. Check software settings and power. Install all available updates on both Mac computers. Install any updates for your third-party apps. Make sure that your old Mac has a minimum system preferences threshold. Shutting down and check the computer's name. Connect the computers together. If both computers are using macOS Server, just make sure that they're near each other and have Wi-Fi turned on. If they're using OS X El Capitan or earlier, connect them to the same network using Wi-Fi or Ethernet. Or, turn on the target disk mode and then start up your old Mac in target disk mode. Or, turn on your new Mac to a Time Machine backup of your old Mac. Use Migration Assistant. On your new Mac, open Migration Assistant. At the window that appears, click the folder for Applications. Click the Continue button. When asked how you want to transfer information, select the option to transfer from a Mac. Time Machine backup is used as the startup disk. On your old Mac, if you're in target disk mode, remove the migration assistant from the Mac's menu bar. Click the Continue button. Open Migration Assistant. Apple Training Series Mac OS X Security and Mobility V10.6 Ph. D. Kite, Michele Hjörleifsson, Patrick Gallagher, 2010. The follow on to Apple Training Series Mac OS X Deployment v10.6 and Apple Training Series Mac OS X Directory Services v10.6, this volume takes an in-depth look at the many options provided to administrators to secure access to intranet services. System administrators and other IT professionals will learn how to configure Mac OS X Server v10.6 to provide secure access to vital network services such as web mail and calendar from mobile devices such as the iPhone. The Providing Network Services section covers establishing critical network services such as DNS, DHCP, and NAT.

Gateway services Systems Services focuses on connecting private and public networks securely using firewalls certificates and VPNs Finally the Working with Mobile Devices section teaches students how to successfully configure Snow Leopard Server s Mobile Access Server and securely deploy intranet services such as web mail and calendar services to mobile devices such as the iPhone without the need for VPN services
