Micro Cogeneration Martin Pehnt,Martin Cames,Corinna Fischer,Barbara Praetorius,Lambert Schneider,Katja Schumacher,Jan-Peter Voß,2006-01-16 The electricity systems of many countries are currently undergoing a process of transformation Market liberalization has induced major mergers and acquisitions in the electricity sector but has also forced companies to seek out new business areas Environmental regulations like the Kyoto process and the European

Emissions Trading Scheme are exposing the sector to external pressure New technologies such as renewable energy combined heat and power CHP or clean coal technologies are emerging Recent worldwide experiences with blackouts have once more put security of supply on the agenda In Germany the nuclear phase out and decommissioning of outdated coal plants will lead to a need for replacement of more than one third of the current generation capacity by 2020 The need for replacement is an extremely important driving force for the current transformation forcing conventional and new technologies to compete for a role in the future energy supply The overall transformation of electricity systems is neither driven nor shaped by technical or societal modifications alone but rather by a rich diversity of processes in the realms of technology politics society and economy Building Pathology David S. Watt, 2025-06-30 Well illustrated introduction to building pathology bridging the gap between building surveying and the detailed understanding of building defects their prognosis and remediation Building Pathology introduces the concept of building pathology and aims to give the reader a greater awareness and understanding of buildings and their users to assist in defect diagnosis and the design and implementation of specific and appropriate remedial measures By focusing on the process rather than specific solutions the book helps the reader to use the information in their practice in a wide variety of situations The new third edition features new case studies which have been integrated into the text Written by a highly qualified author with significant experience in the field the third edition of Building Pathology contains information on Building performance covering environmental factors user requirements building structures and materials Defects damage and decay covering atmospheric and climatic action excess moisture chemical physical and biological action movement fire and human factors Survey and assessment covering building inspections and surveys how to prioritize defects unoccupied buildings and sites and redundant and ruined buildings Remediation in practice covering real world examples With comprehensive coverage of the subject Building Pathology is an essential learning resource for students of building surveying as well as professional architects building surveyors property managers and those working in heritage disciplines Practical Engineer ,1909 Architecture Today ,1996
