Recent Advances and Perspectives Josep Lladós, Young-Bin Kwon, 2004-10-14 1

This book contains refereed and improved papers presented at the 5th International Workshop on Graphics Recognition (GREC 2003). GREC 2003 was held in the Computer Vision Center in Barcelona, Spain, during July 30-31, 2003.

The GREC workshop is the main activity of the IAPR TC10, the Technical 2 Committee on Graphics Recognition. Edited volumes from the previous workshops in the series are available as Lecture Notes in Computer Science (LNCS) Volume 1072 (GREC 1995) at Penn State University, USA; LNCS Volume 1389 (GREC 1997) in Nancy, France; LNCS Volume 1941 (GREC 1999) in Jaipur, India; and LNCS Volume 2390 (GREC 2001) in Kingston, Canada. Graphics recognition is a particular field in the domain of document analysis that combines pattern recognition and image processing techniques for the analysis of any kind of graphical information in documents, either from paper or electronic formats. Topics of interest for the graphics recognition community are vectorization, symbol recognition, analysis of graphic documents with agrammatic notation like electrical diagrams, architectural plans, engineering drawings, musical scores, maps, etc. Graphics-based information retrieval, performance evaluation in graphics recognition, and systems for graphics recognition. In addition to the classic objectives, in recent years graphics recognition has faced up to new and promising perspectives, some of them in conjunction with other scientific communities. Examples of that are sketchy interfaces and on-line graphics recognition in the framework of human computer interaction or query by graphic content for retrieval and browsing in large format graphic documents digital libraries and Web applications Thus the combination of classic challenges with new research interests gives the graphics recognition field an active scientific community with a promising future

Acute Head Injury Ruth Garner, 2013-12-20 It is both a pleasure and a privilege to be invited to contribute a foreword to this book which deserves and needs to be read by virtually everyone who is concerned with the treatment and subsequent welfare of the victims of severe injuries of the brain. Some friends, relatives and workmates might be helped by reading some parts of it, but if the book has the effect it deserves to have on therapists, nurses, doctors and others working in both hospitals and the community, these laymen will be suitably informed and assisted by one or more members of the necessarily large therapeutic team. The improvements in methods of resuscitation that have taken place during the last 40 years or so have abolished the previously fatalistic readiness to accept that a week or two in coma after a head injury was virtually a sentence to death from pneumonia. After it had become possible to save lives, it gradually became clear that survival of the patient was not necessarily followed by recovery of the brain and that the price of success in saving lives was a population of cerebral cripples that was increasing at the rate of 1000 or more a year throughout the country. Although this figure has remained about the same for more than 20 years, there has been a great improvement in the amount of interest, the standard of care and the quality of results that are being achieved. American Artisan, 1926

Extinction Laura Perdew, 2017-09-15 Have you seen a dodo bird recently? Do you have mastodons playing in your backyard? Not likely. These species are both extinct, which means the entire population has died out. More than 99 percent of all species or about 5 billion have gone extinct since life first formed on Earth 4.5 billion years ago. Some of those species went extinct at the same time in an event known as a mass extinction. What type of event could cause such a massive die-off? This is a question that scientists have asked for decades as they explore the causes of extinction. In Extinction: What Happened to the Dinosaurs, Mastodons, and Dodo Birds, readers ages 9 to 12 learn about the scientific investigative work necessary to answer these questions and find the culprit behind mass extinctions. Follow the scientists as they look at all potential reasons for extinction, including asteroid impacts, massive volcanic eruptions, excessive gases in the atmosphere, climate change, and more. Where do scientists find clues to help them answer their questions? In rocks. Scientists travel the globe to excavate the evidence. They look for fossils that might tell them what lived before an extinction and what lived after. They also examine the chemical elements in rocks at the boundaries between geologic eras as well as the structure of rocks. As they follow the evidence, the pieces of the puzzle come together to form a clearer picture of events that happened millions of years ago: whether it's an asteroid strike or a massive volcanic eruption. Extinction is not just a thing of the past; it is happening right now at a higher rate than is typical. Because of this, there is debate about whether or not the presence of humans on Earth is having the same effect as an asteroid strike or a massive volcanic eruption. Are we currently experiencing the sixth mass extinction? And if so, what are the causes? Can we stop it? Extinction: What Happened to the Dinosaurs, Mastodons, and Dodo Birds includes hands-on activities and critical thinking exercises to encourage readers to consider humans' role in the current extinction, what we can learn from past extinction events, and how they can be part of efforts to prevent extinction. Hands-on activities, a fun narrative style, interesting facts, species spotlights, and links to primary sources combine to bring the subject of extinction to life in a fun and engaging way.
