commercials Modernist Women Writers and War Julie Goodspeed-Chadwick, 2011 In Modernist Women Writers and War Julie Goodspeed Chadwick examines important avant garde writings by three American women authors and shows that during World Wars I and II a new kind of war literature emerged one in which feminist investigation of war and trauma effectively counters the paradigmatic war experience long narrated by men In the past Goodspeed Chadwick explains scholars have not considered writings by women as part of war literature They have limited war writing to works by men such as William Butler Yeats's poem An Irish Airman Foresees His Death 1919 which relies on a male perspective a pilot contemplates his forthcoming flight his duty to his country and his life in combat But works by Djuna Barnes H D and Gertrude Stein set in wartime reveal experiences and views of war markedly different from those of male writers They write women and their bodies into their texts thus creating space for female war writing insisting on female presence in wartime and perhaps most significantly critiquing war and patriarchal politics often in devastating fashion Goodspeed Chadwick begins with Barnes who in her surrealist novel Nightwood 1936 emphasizes the actual perversity of war by placing it in contrast to the purported perverse and deviant behavior of her main characters In her epic poem Trilogy 1944 1946 H D validates female suffering and projects a feminist spiritual worldview that fosters healing from the ravages of war Stein for her part in her experimental novel Mrs Reynolds 1952 and her long love poem Lifting Belly 1953 captures her experience of the everyday reality of war on the home front within the domestic economy of her household In these works the female body stands as the primary textual marker or symbol of female identity an insistence on women's presence in both the text and in the world outside the book The strategies employed by Barnes H D and Stein in these texts serve to produce a new kind of writing Goodspeed Chadwick reveals one that ineluctably constructs a female identity within and authorship of the war narrative Dorothy Hewett's Drama, Memory and Australian Theatre Peter Beaglehole, 2023-09-29 When Dorothy Hewett joked about needing a face lift and sex change to improve her standing she drew attention to forces that shaped the production and reception of her drama Drawing on production of her plays over four decades and interviews with Hewett's collaborators this book reveals how cultural memories in theatre solidify and dissolve Viewing theatre production as a mode of remembrance Beaglehole grapples with Hewett as a divisive figure who was ahead of a conservative Australia Revisiting frequently produced plays including chapters on The Man from Mukinupin and The Chapel Perilous as well as rarely produced works including Nowhere and The Tatty Hollow Story this book articulates the ongoing relevance of Hewett's drama to the history of theatre in Australia Contemporary Arab Fiction Fabio Caiani, 2007-09-12 This book introduces Western readers to some of the most significant novels written in Arabic since 1979 Relying on literary theory and referring to comparative examples from other literatures this study places its findings within a wider framework defining what is meant by innovation in the Arabic novel and the particular socio political context in which it appears The New York Times Theater Reviews, 1920- ,1975 Žižek and Performance B. Chow, A. Mangold, 2014-10-17 The first edited volume to examine philosopher Slavoj Žižek's influence on and his relevance for theatre and performance studies Featuring a brand new essay from Žižek himself this is an indispensable contribution to the emerging field of Performance Philosophy

Intermediality in European Avant-garde Cinema Loukia Kostopoulou, 2023-06-15 The book proposes a new perspective on avant garde cinema utilising approaches from intermediality to explore how the spirit of experimentation a hallmark of historical avant garde and post war artistic movements is still present in contemporary filmmaking today The volume explores how contemporary avant garde filmmakers have brought innovation to modern cinema Filmmakers such as Jean Luc Godard Lars von Trier and Alexander Sokurov and their contemporary works will be analyzed reflecting on their experimentation with cinematic techniques and the mixing of the film medium with other media such as literature theatre and painting Important research questions considered throughout the book include How do intermedial experiments convey meaning in films What is the impact on the spectator of the mixing of various media forms in cinema And how are the contemporary films of Jean Luc Godard Lars von Trier and Alexander Sokurov innovative and experimental The book is devoted to all these themes and provides a thorough analysis of contemporary films examined through an intermedial perspective Providing a comprehensive analysis of contemporary avant garde filmmaking from an intermedial perspective this book will be of interest to graduate students and scholars working in intermedial studies film and media studies and cultural studies

Border Lines Daniel Boyarin, 2010-11-24 The historical separation between Judaism and Christianity is often figured as a clearly defined break of a single entity into two separate religions Following this model there would have been one religion known as Judaism before the birth of Christ which then took on a hybrid identity Even before its subsequent division certain beliefs and practices of this composite would have been identifiable as Christian or Jewish In Border Lines however Daniel Boyarin makes a striking case for a very different way of thinking about the historical development that is the partition of Judaeo Christianity There were no characteristics or features that could be described as uniquely Jewish or Christian in late antiquity Boyarin argues

Rather Jesus following Jews and Jews who did not follow Jesus lived on a cultural map in which beliefs such as that in a second divine being and practices such as keeping kosher or maintaining the Sabbath were widely and variably distributed. The ultimate distinctions between Judaism and Christianity were imposed from above by border makers heresiologists anxious to construct a discrete identity for Christianity. By defining some beliefs and practices as Christian and others as Jewish or heretical they moved ideas behaviors and people to one side or another of an artificial border and Boyarin significantly contends invented the very notion of religion.

Irish Writing Paul Hyland, 1991-11-25 This is a collection of original essays by international scholars which focuses on Irish writing in English from the eighteenth century to the present. The essays explore the recurrent motif of exile and the subversive potential of Irish writing in political cultural and literary terms. Case studies of major writers such as Swift Joyce and Heaney are set alongside discussions of relatively unexplored writing such as radical pamphleteering in the age of the French Revolution and the contribution of women writers to Nationalistic journalism.

Postcolonial Amazons Walter Duvall Penrose Jr., 2016-10-27 Scholars have long been divided on the question of whether the Amazons of Greek legend actually existed. Notably Soviet archaeologists' discoveries of the bodies of women warriors in the 1980s appeared to directly contradict western classicists' denial of the veracity of the Amazon myth and there have been few concessions between the two schools of thought since. Postcolonial Amazons offers a ground breaking re evaluation of the place of martial women in the ancient world bridging the gap between myth and historical reality and expanding our conception of the Amazon archetype. By shifting the center of debate to the periphery of the region known to the Greeks the startling conclusion emerges that the ancient Athenian conception of women as weak and fearful was not at all typical of the region of that time even within Greece. Surrounding the Athenians were numerous peoples who held that women could be courageous able clever and daring suggesting that although Greek stories of Amazons may be exaggerations they were based upon a real historical understanding of women who fought. While re examining the sources of the Amazon myth this compelling volume also resituates the Amazons in the broader context from which they have been extracted illustrating that although they were the quintessential example of female masculinity in ancient Greek thought they were not the only instance of this phenomenon. Masculine women were masqueraded on the Greek stage described in the Hippocratic corpus took part in the struggle to control Alexander the Great's empire after his death and served as bodyguards in ancient India. Against the backdrop of the ongoing debates surrounding gender norms and fluidity Postcolonial Amazons breaks new ground as an ancient history of female masculinity and demonstrates that these ideas have a much longer and more durable heritage than we may have supposed.

The Cambridge Companion to Fantasy Literature Edward James, Farah Mendlesohn, 2012-01-26 Fantasy is a creation of the Enlightenment and the recognition that excitement and wonder can be found in imagining impossible things. From the ghost stories of the Gothic to the zombies and vampires of twenty first century popular literature from Mrs Radcliffe to Ms Rowling the fantastic has been popular with readers Since Tolkien and his many imitators however it has become a major publishing phenomenon In this volume critics and authors of fantasy look at its history since the Enlightenment introduce readers to some of the different codes for the reading and understanding of fantasy and examine some of the many varieties and subgenres of fantasy from magical realism at the more literary end of the genre to paranormal romance at the more popular end The book is edited by the same pair who produced The Cambridge Companion to Science Fiction winner of a Hugo Award in 2005
