Yael The Center That Time Forgot:

Yael John Christ, 2014-12-20 Humans often surrender to life's vicissitudes and in doing so they fail to see others living amongst us unaffected by the chaos in our world indeed seemingly above the very madness that characterizes human interaction This story relates an incident when worlds accidentally collide The Peacekeeper Maor Kohn, ISA agent Yael Lavie has seen more than enough death and suffering throughout her industrious career But after losing her husband in a bomb attack her work takes on a much deeper personal meaning When she is called to investigate a series of cybersecurity attacks that leave the government exposed Yael's instincts immediately take over Everything leads her back to one man The Assyrian The Assyrian is a shadow moving from one place to another wreaking havoc and political turmoil in his wake with one clear goal the destruction of the old order in the violent and corrupt Middle East and the creation of a new areal order Yael and her team must work with both friends and foes to bring him and his army of sympathizers to justice before they deliver another concussive blow to the self consuming war ravaged Middle East But the closer she gets the more The Assyrian seem to slip away and the more it feels like she's just a game tool in his big plan Homegrown Magic Jamie Pacton, Rebecca Podos, 2025-03-11 A delightful queer romantic fantasy full of friends to lovers chemistry found family rival family drama and cozy garden magic from two acclaimed YA authors making their adult debut Yael Clauneck is more interested in drinking and flirting than joining their powerful family's business They're on the precipice of a predetermined life when they flee their own graduation party galloping away in search of well they're not sure but maybe the chance to feel like life can still be a grand adventure Margot Greenwillow talented plant witch tea lover and greenhouse owner has never felt further from adventure in her life She's been desperately trying to keep what remains of her family's magic remedies business afloat So when Yael her childhood friend and former crush rides back into her life she's shocked But perhaps this could be a good thing After all Margot could use an assistant in the greenhouses Yael has no experience or honestly practical skills but they're delighted to accept the job They can lay low for a while flirting with Margot and figuring out what to do next Meanwhile Margot has plans of her own but plans are notoriously unreliable and unlikely to survive a swiftly blooming mutual attraction not to mention the machinations of parents determined to get their heir back no matter the cost

Brekky Central Adam Boland, 2014-10-08 I thought I knew a bit about breakfast TV I was wrong What we see is nothing compared to what goes on behind the scenes I was fascinated to read this brutally honest account of so many stories that have become Australian media folklore The characters the drama the egos It is an unflinching account from the man who has arguably had a greater impact on the way we watch TV than anyone since Graham Kennedy MIA FREEDMAN Between Sunrise and The Morning Show Adam Boland oversaw thirty hours of network television a week turning a daggy finance nerd and a suburban mum into household names He even helped propel Kevin Rudd into The Lodge Now for the first time he takes us behind the camera inside the Sunrise family Brekky Central is the story of the most competitive timeslot on television the stakes are high and so are the pressures on those who show up each morning to win the ratings. Along the way celebrities do what celebrities do: television executives outmanoeuvre each other and presenters succeed or fail. This is a world of hellishly long hours of silliness and seriousness, an extraordinary mix of egos, scandals and drama, but also a celebration of the magic that is television.

Playing Hard at Life Etty Cohen, 2013-05-13 Playing Hard at Life brings contemporary relational thinking to bear on the psychodynamic treatment of a notably difficult group of young patients: Working with New York City teenagers who have survived the wars of inner city life and Israeli teenage soldiers who have survived the wars of the Middle East. Author Etty Cohen documents the extraordinary challenges of forming a treatment alliance with these shattered youngsters, of engaging them psychodynamically and of working toward a viable termination. The result is not only a poignant record of courage and commitment on the part of patient and therapist alike, but also a valuable extension of modern trauma theory to adolescence as a developmental stage with its own challenges and requirements. The heart and strength of Cohen's book is her vivid documentation of hands-on encounters with her adolescent patients, seen both individually and in group. Cohen makes plain that with young people so horrendously traumatized, treatment assumes a necessarily improvisational character. And yet she argues even in the type of pragmatic encounters dictated by massive and repeated trauma, contemporary relational theory provides a compass with which to navigate through the rocky shoals of the clinical work. Again and again the reader is shocked by just how much happened to these adolescents, astonished at how resilient they proved to be, and finally moved by how much Cohen was able to accomplish with them. Her relational approaches to these treatments, teamed with her realization that work with multiply traumatized adolescents cannot be structured in the manner of conventional therapy, makes this book an invaluable, timely and deeply sobering contribution to the literature.

Never A Dull Moment Jyl Lynn Felman, 2002-09-11 Teachers are really performers; classrooms are stages and students the captivated audience. In beautiful prose, Felman invites us to watch her one woman show on the art of performance in today's classrooms. These essays take on the greatest hits of the academy: identity, politics, sexual harassment, academic censorship and radical pedagogy. Felman's book is a performance not to be missed.
