Object Oriented Modeling and Design
Prelim Question Paper Solution

Q.1(a) Attempt any THREE of the following

[12]

Q.1(a) (i) What is modeling? Also state its four features.

[4]

(A) Importance of Modeling

- Modeling is a proven and well accepted engineering technique. We build architectural model of houses and high rises to help their users visualize the final product. We may even build mathematical models to analyze the effects of wind or earthquakes on our building.
- Modeling is not just the part of the building industry.
- Modeling would be unbelievable to deploy a new aircraft or an automobile without first building models from computer models to physical wind tunnel models full scale prototypes.
- A model is a simplification of reality. A model provides the blueprints of the system. Models may encompass detail plans as well as more general plans.
- A good model includes those elements that have broad effect and omits those minor elements that are not relevant to the given level of abstraction.
- Every system may be described from different aspects using different models and each model is therefore semantically closed abstraction of the system.
- A model may be structural, emphasizing the organization of the system or it may be behavioral, emphasizing the dynamics of the system.
- We built models so that we can better understand the system we are developing through modeling, we achieve four aims :
 1. Models help us to visualize the system as it is or as we want it to be.
 2. Models permit us to specify the structure or behavior of a system.
 3. Model gives us a template that guides us in constructing a system.
 4. Models document the decision we have made.
- We build models of complex system because we cannot understand such a system in its whole.

Q.1(a) (ii) Explain concept of interface in component diagram.

[4]

(A) Interface :

- An interface is a collection of operations that specifies a service of a class or component.
- An interface therefore describes the externally visible behavior of that element.
- In interface might represent the complete behavior of a class or component or only a part of that behavior.
- An interface defines a set of operation specification (that is, their sing), but never set of operation implementation.
- The declaration of an interface looks like a class with the keyword <<interface>> above the name; attributes are not relevant, except sometimes to show constant.
- An interface provided by a class to the outside world is shown as a small circle attached to the class box by a line.
- An interface required by a class from some other class is shown as a small semicircle attached to the class box by a line, as in Figure 4.
