Companion to Cities in the Greco Roman World is an excellent resource for advanced undergraduate and graduate students researchers and lecturers in Classics Ancient History and Classical Mediterranean Archaeology as well as historians and archaeologists looking to update their knowledge of Greek or Roman urbanism Frankish Jerusalem Anna Gutgarts,2024-02-22 An in depth analysis of the dynamic process of urbanisation in Frankish Jerusalem The Urbanisation of the North-Western Provinces of the Roman Empire Frida Pellegrino,2020-11-26 This study investigates the development of urbanism in the north western provinces of the Roman empire Key themes include continuity and discontinuity between pre Roman and Roman urban systems relationships between juridical statuses and levels of monumentality levels of connectivity and economic integration and regional urban hierarchies Architectural Energetics in Archaeology Leah McCurdy,Elliot M. Abrams,2019-01-25 Archaeologists and the public at large have long been fascinated by monumental architecture built by past societies Whether considering the earthworks in the Ohio Valley or the grandest pyramids in Egypt and Mexico people have been curious as to how pre modern societies with limited technology were capable of constructing monuments of such outstanding scale and quality Architectural energetics is a methodology within archaeology that generates estimates of the amount of labor and time allocated to construct these past monuments This methodology allows for detailed analyses of architecture and especially the analysis of the social power underlying such projects Architectural Energetics in Archaeology assembles an international array of scholars who have analyzed architecture from archaeological and historic societies using architectural energetics It is the first such volume of its kind In addition to applying architectural energetics to a global range of architectural works it outlines in detail the estimates of costs that can be used in future architectural analyses This volume will serve archaeology and classics researchers and lecturers teaching undergraduate and graduate courses related to social power and architecture It also will interest architects examining past construction and engineering projects The production of Urban Space, Temporality, and Spatiality Bernard Gauthiez,2020-05-05 The production of urban space in scarcely studied by scholars in historical and urban studies the city being still predominantly seen as a frame in which activities and social relationship develop not a produce in itself The scope of the book is the comprehension of this production This implies an adequate conceptualisation of the way urban space can be measured and broken down in units which can be put in relation with social processes and agents A first part examines the concepts and their implications The second part deals with the anthropology and typology of architectural production considered in relation to demography The third part develops on the rhythms of the space production at Lyon from the late 15th century to the 19th The temporalities and spatialities of the production are determined and examined The agents of the production are studied all along the period in parallel to the market aimed at investors in real estate tenants activities Each phenomenon identified can be described and understood as in the meantime a temporal spatial and social unit Cities and the Shaping of Memory in the Ancient Near East Ömür Harmanşah,2013-03-18 This book investigates the practice of constructing cities in the ancient Near East bringing together architecture and cultural history Theoretical Approaches to the Archaeology of Ancient Greece Lisa Nevett, 2017-03-06 In the modern world objects and buildings speak eloquently about their creators Status gender identity and cultural affiliations are just a few characteristics we can often infer about such material culture But can we make similar deductions about the inhabitants of the first millennium BCE Greek world Theoretical Approaches to the Archaeology of Ancient Greece offers a series of case studies exploring how a theoretical approach to the archaeology of this area provides insight into aspects of ancient society An introductory section exploring the emergence and growth of theoretical approaches is followed by examinations of the potential insights these approaches provide The authors probe some of the meanings attached to ancient objects townscapes and cemeteries for those who created and used or inhabited them The range of contexts stretches from the early Greek communities during the eighth and seventh centuries BCE through Athens between the eighth and fifth centuries BCE and on into present day Turkey and the Levant during the third and second centuries BCE The authors examine a range of practices from the creation of individual items such as ceramic vessels and figurines through to the construction of civic buildings monuments and cemeteries At the same time they interrogate a range of spheres from craft production through civic and religious practices to funerary ritual

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Material Religion in the Ancient Near East and Egypt Nicola Laneri, Sharon R. Steadman, 2023-06-29 With contributions spanning from the Neolithic Age to the Iron Age this book offers important insights into the religions and ritual practices in ancient Egyptian and Near Eastern communities through the lenses of their material remains The book begins with a theoretical introduction to the concept of material religion and features editor introductions to each of its six parts which tackle the following themes the human body religious architecture the written word sacred images the spirituality of animals and the sacred role of the landscape Illustrated with over 100 images chapters provide insight into every element of religion and materiality from the largest building to the smallest amulet This is a benchmark work for further studies on material religion in the ancient Near East and Egypt The Archaeology of Urban Landscapes Alan James Christian Mayne, Alan Mayne, Tim Murray, 2001-12-13 This exciting 2001 collection on a movement in urban archaeology investigates the historical archaeology of urban slums The material that is dug up broken dinner plates glass grog bottles and innumerable tonnes of building debris nails and plaster samples will not quickly find its way into museum collections But properly interpreted it yields evidence of lives and communities that have left little in the way of written records Including eleven case studies five on cities in the United States and one each on London and Sheffield and further chapters on Cape Town Sydney Melbourne and Quebec City it maps out a new field which will attract the attention of a range of students and scholars outside archaeology in particular historical sociologists and historians Living in a World Heritage Site Manon Istasse, 2019-07-03 Through a thick ethnography of the Fez medina in Morocco a World Heritage site since 1981 Manon Istasse interrogates how human beings come to define houses as heritage Istasse interrogates how heritage appears or not when inhabitants undertake construction and restoration projects in their homes furnish and decorate their spaces talk about their affective and sensual relations with houses face conflicts in and about their houses and more Shedding light on the continuum between houses as dwellings and houses as heritage the author establishes heritage as a trajectory heritage as a quality results from a surplus of attention and relates to nostalgia or to a feeling of threat loss and disappearance to values related to purity materiality and time and to actions of preservation and transmission Living in a World Heritage site provides a grammar of heritage that will allow scholars to question key notions of temporality and nostalgia the idea of culture the importance of experts and moral principles in relation to heritage sites around the globe

Roman Urban Street Networks Alan Kaiser, 2011-04-26 This book explores how Roman perceptions of streets influenced their decisions about where to place urban buildings Using textual evidence as well as the physical evidence from Pompeii Ostia Silchester and Empuries Alan Kaiser argues that ideals about the arrangement of space united the phenomenon of Roman urbanism

Origins of the Colonnaded Streets in the Cities of the Roman East Ross Burns, 2017-06-02 The colonnaded axes define the visitor's experience of many of the great cities of the Roman East. How did this extraordinarily bold tool of urban planning evolve? The street instead of remaining a mundane passage, a convenient means of passing from one place to another, was in the course of little more than a century transformed in the Eastern provinces into a monumental landscape which could in one sweeping vision encompass the entire city. The colonnaded axes became the touchstone by which cities competed for status in the Eastern Empire. Though adopted as a sign of cities' prosperity under the Pax Romana, they were not particularly Roman in their origin. Rather, they reflected the inventiveness, fertility of ideas, and the dynamic role of civic patronage in the Eastern provinces in the first two centuries under Rome. This study will concentrate on the convergence of ideas behind these great avenues, examining over fifty sites in an attempt to work out the sequence in which ideas developed across a variety of regions from North Africa around to Asia Minor. It will look at the phenomenon in the context of the consolidation of Roman rule.
