Vehicle Occupant Safety Survey, 2009 The 2007 Motor Vehicle Occupant Safety Survey was the sixth in a series of periodic national telephone surveys on occupant protection issues conducted for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration NHTSA Data collection was conducted by Schulman Ronca Bucualas Inc a national survey research organization The survey used two questionnaires each administered to a randomly selected national sample of about 6 000 persons age 16 or older Interviewing began January 9 2007 and ended April 30 2007 This report presents the survey findings pertaining to child restraint use Detailed information on the survey methodology as well as copies of the questionnaires are contained in a separate NHTSA report 2007 Motor Vehicle Occupant Safety Survey Volume 1 Methodology Report Among drivers who lived with children age 12 or younger most indicated that the youngest child typically rode in the back seat Parents caregivers of children under the age of 9 usually said the referent child either used a child car seat all the time 77% or never 18% If the child never used a car seat it usually was because the child had graduated to seat belt use However 23% of the children who never used a car seat but wore seat belts said the shoulder belt cut across their face or neck on most trips 23% usually put the shoulder belt behind their back and 12% put the shoulder belt under their arm Many children ages 6 through 8 discontinued using child car seats including booster seats Although booster seats are recommended for most children ages 4 through 8 the survey found only 40% of children in that age range using them and another 24% using front facing child safety seats While most parents caregivers 92% had heard of booster seats 17% of these had concerns about their safety Prevention Report, 1996 World Report on Child Injury Prevention M. M. Peden, 2008 Child injuries are largely absent from child survival initiatives presently on the global agenda Through this report the World Health Organization the United Nations Children s Fund and many partners have set out to elevate child injury to a priority for the global public health and development communities It should be seen as a complement to the UN Secretary General s study on violence against children released in late 2006 that report addressed violence related or intentional injuries Both reports suggest that child injury and violence prevention programs need to be integrated into child survival and other broad strategies focused on improving the lives of children Evidence demonstrates the dramatic successes in child injury prevention in countries which have made a concerted effort These results make a case for increasing investments in human resources and institutional capacities Implementing proven interventions could save more than a thousand children s lives a

Court of International Trade,1995 European Report on Child Injury Prevention Dinesh Sethi,World Health Organization. Regional Office for Europe,2008 Injuries are a leading cause of death and disability in children This report presents evidence on how they can be prevented and calls for greater commitment and action from policy makers and practitioners to decrease the burden Every year unintentional injuries kill nearly 42 000 children and young people under the age of 20 in the WHO European Region Injuries are the leading cause of death among those aged 5 19 years and 5 out of 6 of these deaths occur in low and middle income countries Irrespective of country income the burden falls disproportionately on children from the most disadvantaged groups The leading types of unintentional injuries are road traffic injuries drowning poisoning burns and falls All injury types have similar main causes and socioeconomic and environmental determinants Children are particularly vulnerable to injuries and need special consideration to safeguard their rights to health and safe environments free from injury This report companion to the World Report on Child Injury Prevention presents the evidence on both the great potential for injury prevention and the effectiveness and value for money of measures already in use in European countries with low injury mortality It shows why health systems and particularly programs for child health throughout the WHO European Region should give priority to preventing and controlling child injury
