congregations today are beset by fears whether over loss of members and money or of irrelevancy in an increasingly pluralistic society To counter this many congregations focus on strategy and purpose what churches do but Cheryl Peterson submits that mainline churches need to focus instead on what or who they are to reclaim a theological rather than sociological understanding of themselves To do this she places the questions of the church's identity and mission into a conversation with the primary ecclesiological paradigms of the past century the neo Reformation concept of the church as a word event and the ecumenical paradigms of the church as communion She argues that these two paradigms assume a context of cultural Christendom that no longer exists focused on the church that is gathered rather than the missional church
