Mount Grace Priory: Excavations of 1957-1992 Glyn Coppack, Laurence Keen, 2019-10-15. Owned by the National Trust and managed by English Heritage, Mount Grace Priory in North Yorkshire, established in 1398 and suppressed in 1539, was one of only nine successful Carthusian monasteries in England and one of the best preserved medieval houses of that order in Europe. First excavated by Sir William St John Hope in 1896-1900 and in state guardianship since 1955, it is acknowledged as a type site for late medieval Carthusian monasteries. The modern study of Mount Grace began in 1957 when Hope's interpretation of the monks' cells about the great cloister was found to be simplistic. This was followed between 1968 and 1974 by the excavation of individual monks' cells in the west range of the great cloister and two cells in the north range together with their gardens. Areas not excavated by Hope. The examination of the monks' cells was completed in 1985 by the excavation of the central cell of the north cloister range together with its garden and the cloister alley outside the cell. The cultural material recovered from these cells indicated the trade each monk practiced predominantly the copying and binding of books. Because each cell was enclosed by high walls the pottery and metalwork recovered could be identified to an individual monk. In 1987 English Heritage commissioned the re excavation of two areas that had been examined by Hope the water tower in the great cloister and the prior's cell refectory and kitchen in the south cloister range and the guest house in the west range of the inner court. The contrast between this semi public area of the monastery and the monks cells was dramatic. Coupled with this excavation was a reappraisal of the architectural development of the monastery and reconstruction of lost structures such as the cloister alley walls and the central water tower.

Transforming Infantile Trauma in Analytic Work with Children and Adults Martha Stevns, Lucinda Hawkins, 2022-09-23 This vivid and moving volume presents the clinical work and writings of Alessandra Cavalli an internationally known child and adult psychoanalyst who taught and supervised widely ran infant observation seminars in the UK and Europe and was closely involved in the development of child analysis training in Russia. Informed by a deep knowledge of theory each chapter draws on many strands of both psychoanalytic and Jungian thought integrating multiple analytic languages into a coherent clinical language specific to Cavalli. The book includes 11 of her most important papers about work with children and adults with an introduction by the distinguished Jungian psychoanalyst Warren Colman. Her work was primarily concerned with the impact of trauma on the developing self and the importance of weathering emotional storms in search of meaning and the book will be fascinating reading for clinicians of different psychoanalytic approaches working with adults and children as well as students of psychotherapy and counselling.

Minor Knowledge and Microhistory Sigurdur Gylfi Magnusson, David Olafsson, 2016-10-04 This book studies everyday writing practices among ordinary people in a poor rural society in the 19th and early 20th centuries. Using the abundance of handwritten material produced disseminated and consumed some centuries after the advent of print as its research material the book's focus is on its day to day usage and on minor knowledge i.e. text matter originating and rooted primarily in the everyday life of the peasantry. The focus is on the history of education and communication in a global perspective. Rather than engaging in comparing different countries or regions the authors seek to view and study early modern and modern manuscript culture as a transnational or transregional practice giving agency to its ordinary participants and attention to hitherto overlooked source material. Through a microhistorical lens the authors examine the strength of this aspect of popular culture and try to show it in a wider perspective as well as asking questions about the importance of this development for the continuity of the literary tradition. The book is an attempt to explain the nature of the literary culture in general how new ideas were transported from one person to another from community to community and between regions essentially the role of minor knowledge in the development of modern men.
