McIlroy,2012-08-06 This impressive volume takes a broad critical look at Irish and Irish related cinema through the lens of genre theory and criticism Secondary and related objectives of the book are to cover key genres and sub genres and account for their popularity The result offers new ways of looking at Irish cinema Three Plays Jonathan Moore,2019-04-02 Award winning playwright Jonathan Moore has been described as a singular voice for his generation furious nihilistic poetic Time Out This anthology brings together three of his critically acclaimed plays including This Other Eden Fall From Light and Treatment The Plays This Other Eden Guardian Critics s Choice A story of passion A wife and a mother Her son and daughter Her husband The London Irish Limboland The hunger for a sense of a real culture The desire for freedom A tough play about a woman s soul told with beauty humour and hope the play burns with passion and indignation Daily Telegraph Fall From Light A young composer writes a new opera The Director rejects it but his lover a young Diva takes him to the council estate where she and the composer grew up There they meet Girly and his gang A tale of art savagery and redemption Treatment Fringe First Liam is part of a violent street gang but wants to escape Trapped between two worlds he has to choose between the dark allure of violence and the healing power of love A Special Illumination Rollan McCleary,2017-07-28 Gay spirituality represents a hidden strand in Western thought that was only publically declared from the Gay Liberation of the 1970s Since coming out expressions of gay spirituality have proliferated in both number and diversity Beginning with gay theology within Christianity the phenomenon has now reached as far as Buddhism and neo paganism But so far critical analysis of the movement has been very limited largely because gay spirituality has been treated as a political and social movement arguing for rights and acceptance within religious circles A Special Illumination offers an indepth analysis and argues that gay spirituality should be placed at the heart of religion Shakespeare's Plants and Gardens: A Dictionary Vivian Thomas,Nicki Faircloth,2014-02-27 Shakespeare lived when knowledge of plants and their uses was a given but also at a time of unique interest in plants and gardens His lifetime saw the beginning of scientific interest in plants the first large scale plant introductions from outside the country since Roman times and the beginning of gardening as a leisure activity Shakespeare s works show that he engaged with this new world to illuminate so many facets of his plays and poems This dictionary offers a complete companion to Shakespeare s references to landscape plants and gardens including both formal and rural settings It covers plants and flowers gardening terms and the activities that Shakespeare included within both cultivated and uncultivated landscapes as well as encompassing garden imagery in relation to politics the state and personal lives Each alphabetical entry offers an definition and overview of the term discussed in its historical context followed by a guided tour of its use in Shakespeare s works and finally an extensive bibliography including primary and secondary sources books and articles Fabricating Lureland Julia Winckler,2021-12-06 Through the analysis of surviving archival traces this book constructs a history of the imagination and memory of the town of Peacehaven Built as a speculative development atop iconic chalk cliffs on the Sussex Coast and marketed as a garden city by the sea the estate quickly attracted adverse publicity

Influential voices such as the Bloomsbury group's Virginia and Leonard Woolf, architect and writer Clough Williams Ellis and the Campaign for the Protection of Rural England soon began to criticise it as a blot on the rolling pastoral downland. Instead of reading and appraising Peacehaven's story in a polarized way, this book breaks new ground by critically interpreting visual representations and commissioned photographs of the Estate and re-evaluating propositions from its inception which aspired to secure improved public health and home ownership in direct response to the negative impact of industrialization and WWI. Focusing on the interwar period and tracing mutating agendas, the book investigates contested marketing and construction narratives through Histoire Crois e methodology and its intercrossings with memory and the imagination. By combining visual and creative research methods with oral history, multi-layered narratives of place come into focus. The study tracks the visual programme of the developer's in-house magazine Peacehaven Post alongside previously underexplored blueprints, photographs, postcards and promotional guidebooks and considers the garden city narrative as a form of social Utopia. Garden city ideals are once again evoked in debates as a potential solution to the ongoing national housing shortage, giving this research additional urgency as new large-scale redevelopment erases many of the few and fast-disappearing original landmarks.

Women Screenwriters Jill Neldes, Jule Selbo, 2015-09-29 Women Screenwriters is a study of more than 300 female writers from 60 nations from the first film scenarios produced in 1986 to the present day. Divided into six sections by continent, the entries give an overview of the history of women screenwriters in each country as well as individual biographies of its most influential.

The Myth of an Irish Cinema Michael Patrick Gillespie, 2009-01-19 For the past seventy years the discipline of film studies has widely invoked the term national cinema. Such a concept suggests a unified identity with distinct cultural narratives. As the current debate over the meaning of nation and nationalism has made thoughtful readers question the term, its application to the field of film studies has become the subject of recent interrogation. In The Myth of an Irish Cinema Michael Patrick Gillespie presents a groundbreaking challenge to the traditional view of filmmaking, contesting the existence of an Irish national cinema. Given the social, economic and cultural complexity of contemporary Irish identity, Gillespie argues filmmakers can no longer present Irishness as a monolithic entity. The book is arranged thematically with chapters exploring cinematic representation of the middle class, urban life, rural life, religion and politics. Offering close readings of Irish-themed films, Gillespie identifies a variety of interpretative approaches based on the diverse elements that define national character. Covering a wide range of films from John Ford's The Quiet Man and Kirk Jones's Waking Ned Devine to Bob Quinn's controversial Budawanny and The Bishop's Story, The Myth of an Irish Cinema signals a paradigm shift in the field of film studies and promises to reinvigorate dialogue on the subject of national cinema.

The Faith of William Shakespeare Graham Holderness, 2016-11-18 William Shakespeare still stands head and shoulders above any other author in the English language a position that is unlikely ever to change Yet it is often said that we know very little about him and that applies as much to what he believed as it does to the rest of his biography Or does it In this authoritative new study Graham Holderness takes us through the context of Shakespeare's life times of religious and political turmoil and looks at what we do know of Shakespeare the Anglican But then he goes beyond that and mines the plays themselves not just for the words of the characters but for the concepts themes and language which Shakespeare was himself steeped in the language of the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer Considering particularly such plays as Richard II Henry V The Merchant of Venice Measure for Measure Hamlet Othello The Tempest and The Winter's Tale Holderness shows how the ideas of Catholicism come up against those of Luther and Calvin how Christianity was woven deep into Shakespeare's psyche and how he brought it again and again to his art
