Demographic and Societal Change Dudley L. Poston, Jr., 2017-10-27. This book explores how low fertility levels could fundamentally change a country's population and society. It analyzes the profound effects below-average birthrates have on virtually all aspects of society, from the economy to religion, from marriage to gender roles. An introduction written by Dudley L. Poston, Jr. provides a general overview of this relatively new phenomenon that has already impacted nearly one-half of the countries of the world today. Poston also discusses the broad implications of the changes that these societies are currently experiencing and the ones that they will soon confront. Next, each of the 12 essays collected in this volume looks into how a low fertility level affects a particular demographic or societal structure or process. In addition, case studies offer an in-depth portrait of these changes in the United States and China. Coverage includes the dynamics of low and lowest-low, where the birthrate is well below average fertility high and increasing life expectancies in the United States the implications of native born fertility and other socio demographic changes for less skilled U S immigration ageing and age dependency in post industrial societies good mothering and gender roles in China the increasing prevalence of voluntary childlessness how low fertility and prolonged longevity could result in slow economic growth the decreasing relevance of traditional religious systems and more The emergence and persistence of population decline produced by low fertility levels has the potential to greatly alter key aspects of society as well as individual lives Containing insightful analysis from some of the top minds in demography today this book will arm readers with the knowledge they need to fully understand these transformations

Dynamics of Values in Fertility Change Richard Leete,1999-04-01 The global transformation in the number of children women bear has been one of the most remarkable changes in social behaviour in the twentieth century The search for explanations of the causes in childbearing behaviour and particularly in the values attached to children remains a central research preoccupation of population scientists This book explores the dimensions of values identified as significant in their impact on fertility decisions It offers a range of perspectives on a mosaic of values perceived to be of importance in influencing the bearing and caring of children The book examines the macro and micro theories of the value of children and considers the multi dimensional nature of value change The chapters explore the nature of the mechanisms by which value change may serve to reinforce or promote the ideational essence of change and the impact of pressures for change It is observed that gender religion and culture all function as complementary lenses through which the necessity of value maintenance or modification is viewed The book concludes that fertility behaviour is value driven but that fertility change is not necessarily driven by value change The values of most significance to fertility are more fundamental and general values rather than explicit fertility values

Gender Equality and Policy Implementation in the Corporate World Isabelle Engeli,Amy G. Mazur,2022-05-05 Gender Equality and Policy Implementation in the Corporate World takes a unique approach to the issue of gender equality in corporations in the 21st century It examines the implementation of specific policies that seek to promote women s presence on corporate boards in 15 democracies in Western and Central Eastern Europe North America and Australasia through the lens of the Gender Equality Policy in Practice Approach The thirteen empirically rich country chapters by leading country experts and two separate comparative chapter answer core questions How were policies adopted and implemented Did they achieve any degree of success that would allow for real and lasting equality What were the politics of the pursuit of corporate gender equality across the 15 countries What worked and did not work and why What are the lessons to be drawn from these experiences The findings of the book show that policy implementation does matter but that in this last bastion of male domination policies have had more success in increasing women s numbers over challenging gender biased norms that block women of all cultural and socio economic backgrounds from gaining real power on boards The path breaking study shows that the reasons for this slow change are highly complex and case specific in the details of each policy mix While progress has been slow in coming it has still been made even in these challenging times Future policy success the book concludes is in the hands of men and women willing to come forward to overcome these well entrenched obstacles

Schäfer, 2011-12-09 Gender relations in post socialist countries Even more than 20 years after turning away from socialism Eastern European and Central Asian states are still characterized by the regime change in the fields of work politics and culture What are the effects and implications that this change has produced for gender relations in post socialist countries And what does this mean for the situation of women and men living there today In this context gender relations are especially interesting since gender equality was perceived as a political goal and moreover a given reality in socialism The articles in this volume show the changes as well as the stability of gender relations and power structures during the transformation process and in post socialist times They shed light on topics like labour market policies fertility political representation of women or male artists concerned with gender issues covering the geographical space from Hungary and Poland over Bulgaria and Romania to Ukraine and Uzbekistan Beyond that some of the descriptions and analyses challenge understood certainties about how to create gender equality and about the women and men living in post soviet regions today

Fertility and Population Aging in Japan and Eastern Asia Toru Suzuki, 2014-02-04 This book provides a unique comparative view of the extremely low fertility and drastic population aging in Eastern Asian countries After discussing demographic and political developments of Japan in detail as a reference case accelerated changes in Korea Taiwan and China are interpreted with a comparative cultural view In addition to the well known cultural divide between countries with strong and weak family ties this book proposes another divide between offspring of the feudal family and that of the Confucian family Included is a discussion of how the discrepancy between the compressed change in the socioeconomic system and the slow change in the family system has resulted in extremely low fertility in Eastern Asia A comparison of policy development reveals that the sense of overpopulation has caused difficulty in launching pro natal policy interventions in Eastern Asia especially in China Impacts of fertility decline on population aging total dependency ratio and the timing of population decline in Eastern Asia are analyzed with a stylized model The remaining Confucian family pattern is especially important in understanding and predicting political development to cope with accelerated population aging This book is a valuable resource for researchers who are interested in the latest and most surprising demographic phenomena in the region

Convergence to Very Low Fertility in East Asia: Processes, Causes, and Implications Noriko O. Tsuya, Minja Kim Choe, Feng Wang, 2019-03-23 This book examines the trends underlying factors and policy implications of fertility declines in three East Asian countries Japan South Korea and China In contrast to Western countries that have also experienced fertility declines to below replacement levels fertility decline in these East Asian countries is most notable in its rapidity and sheer magnitude After a rapid decline shortly after the war in which fertility was halved in one decade from 4.5 children per woman in 1947 to 2.1 in 1957 Japan's fertility started to decline to below replacement levels in the mid 1970s reaching 1.3 per woman in the early 2000s Korea experienced one of the most spectacular declines ever recorded with fertility falling continuously from very high 6.0 per woman to a below replacement level 1.6 per woman between the early 1960s and mid 1980s reaching 1.1 per woman in 2005 Similarly after a dramatic decline from very high to low levels in one decade from the early 1970s to early 1980s China's fertility reached around 1.5 per woman by 2005 Despite differences in timing tempo and scale of fertility declines dramatic fertility reductions have resulted in extremely rapid population aging and foreshadow a long term population decline in all three countries This monograph provides a systematic comparison of fertility transitions in these East Asian countries and discusses the economic social and cultural factors that may account for their similarities and differences After an overview of cultural backgrounds economic transformations and the evolution of policies the trends and age patterns of fertility are examined The authors then investigate changes in women's marriage and childbearing within marriage the two major direct determinants of fertility followed by an analysis of the social and economic factors underlying fertility and nuptiality changes such as education women s employment and gender relations at home
