The Curious Map Book Ashley Baynton-Williams, 2015-10-20 Since that ancient day when the first human drew a line connecting Point A to Point B maps have been understood as one of the most essential tools of communication. Despite differences in language, appearance, or culture, maps are universal touchstones in human civilization. Over the centuries, maps have served many varied purposes far from mere guides for reaching a destination; they are unique artistic forms, aides in planning commercial routes, literary devices for illuminating a story. Accuracy or inaccuracy of maps has been the make or break factor in countless military battles throughout history. They have graced the walls of homes, bringing prestige and elegance to their owners. They track the mountains, oceans, and stars of our existence. Maps help us make sense of our worlds, both real and imaginary; they bring order to the seeming chaos of our surroundings. With The Curious Map Book, Ashley Baynton-Williams gathers an amazing, chronologically ordered variety of cartographic gems, mainly from the vast collection of the British Library. He has unearthed a wide array of the whimsical and fantastic, from maps of board games to political ones, maps of the Holy Land to maps of the human soul. In his illuminating introduction, Baynton-Williams also identifies and expounds upon key themes of map production, peculiar styles, and the commerce and collection of unique maps. This

Three-Leaf Clover
Michael D. McHugh, 2025-02-03 It's time to be straight with the reader. This is all pure fiction. It is not my intent to insult the true Marines from the 1st Battalion 9th Marine Division by writing a fictional account. My dad and uncles were World War II vets or Korean War vets. I had friends who were Vietnam War vets. Some of my Army and Marine veteran friends will likely not be happy with this book. They were proud patriots who answered their government's call to duty and felt Vietnam was a noble cause. They felt their government and far-left college students ended a war they truly believed we could win. Other proud veterans like John Kerry would disagree with those assessments. My brother-in-law was a Marine at Khe Sanh. Sadly, he struggled with PTSD and alcohol and died in 2011. I struggled with the concept of my fictional participation at Khe Sanh. I just missed being drafted. Vietnam was such a big part of my youth that I felt compelled to share a story about it. Vietnam, like Korea, has sadly become a forgotten war. All of the characters in my book are loosely based on my high school boyhood friends from Worcester, Massachusetts. I drew on those memories as I sat in my Boston suburb home, quarantined from COVID-19 in 2020. I have never lived in Boston. However, my son lived in Boston on Vershire Street in West Roxbury, which is my fictional home in the book. I have never been to Vietnam. I've never fired an M16 rifle. My claim to fame is firing a BB gun in Boy Scouts. As an Assistant DA for nearly forty years, I have passionately hated guns for destroying young lives. I was born in 1955 and was terrified that I would be drafted into the Army and would have to fight in Vietnam. The draft was implemented in December 1, 1969. It was a lottery system based on birthdays for boys ages eighteen through twenty-six. The last drawing of the draft was March 12, 1975. My draft number in 1973 was number 187, a fairly safe number because the US government stopped actively taking boys on December 7 1972 which interestingly marked the thirty first anniversary of Pearl Harbor I have tremendous respect for veterans I am very patriotic but not blindly so As I noted my dad and uncle were veterans of World War II My friends dads were veterans of the Korean War However truth be told I watched the daily broadcasts of the Vietnam War and read my hometown newspaper every night in the hopes I wouldn't be dragged into an unpopular war There were the Kent State shootings Massive anti war protests Police misconduct at the 1968 Democratic Convention in Chicago The assassinations of MLK and RFK Riots in our cities Crazy and turbulent times I prayed that President Richard Nixon and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger would get us out of Vietnam which they did when the US signed the Paris Peace Accord in 1973 I have read many Vietnam War books but six especially moved me A Rumor of War by Philip J Caputo who was a Marine Corps veteran lieutenant at Danang in 1965 Enduring Vietnam by James Wright a Marine Corps veteran from WWII and Professor Emeritus of History at Dartmouth College Dispatches by Michael Herr The Things They Carried by Timothy O'Brien and SEAL by retired Lt Commander Michael Walsh a Massachusetts and Dorchester Massachusetts native Army veteran Donald Ball of Worcester Massachusetts who did two separate tours of duty in Vietnam with the 101st and 83rd Airborne provided me with sage advice and copies of Vietnam Magazine that greatly assisted my research and understanding of the war

Finite and Infinite Goods Robert Merrihew Adams, 1999-07-29 Renowned scholar Robert Adams explores the relation between religion and ethics through a comprehensive philosophical account of a theistically based framework for ethics Adams framework begins with the good rather than the right and with excellence rather than usefulness He argues that loving the excellent of which adoring God is a clear example is the most fundamental aspect of a life well lived Developing his original and detailed theory Adams contends that devotion the sacred grace martyrdom worship vocation faith and other concepts drawn from religious ethics have been sorely overlooked in moral philosophy and can enrich the texture of ethical thought
