Petkus,Kenneth J. Graham,NAVAL WEAPONS CENTER CHINA LAKE CA.,1981 TIGER is a digital computer code written in FORTRAN IV for calculating the thermodynamic state of a nonideal heterogeneous system of known composition It was developed at Stanford Research Institute specifically for detonation calculations after experience with the RUBY code at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and the BKW code at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory had led to the conclusion that a more versatile code was required to perform routine and research calculations on condensed explosives While RUBY is limited by its inability to treat certain explosive compositions both RUBY and BKW are restricted by the inflexibility of their interlocking subroutines which for example prevent use of a new equation of state in a calculation without complete reprogramming The TIGER code was constructed to avoid the problems associated with interdependent subroutines The program was written in modular form so that the thermodynamics used to calculate the state the hydrodynamics used to calculate detonation parameters and the equations of state used to describe the properties of the system are treated separately in different parts of the code Because of this separation TIGER can be best described as a general code for calculating the thermodynamic properties of a nonideal heterogeneous mixture described by an arbitrary equation of state with the capability of calculating detonation parameters provided by the hydrodynamic option Tiger (panthera Tigris) Care Manual Ronald Tilson,Cheryl L. Napier,Karen Goodrowe-Beck,Andy Goldfarb,Michelle Skurski,Tara Harris,2016 ACMs are considered works in progress since practices continue to evolve through advances in scientific knowledge The use of information within the manuals should be in accordance with all local state and federal laws and regulations concerning the care of animals The recommendations are not exclusive management approaches diets medical treatments or procedures and may require adaptation to the specific needs of individual animals and particular circumstances in each institution Commercial entities and media identified are not necessarily endorsed by AZA The statements presented throughout the body of the manual do not represent standards of care unless specifically identified as such in clearly marked sidebar boxes Publishers website convey complex battlefield instructions in a simple and memorable manner The manual contains everything the reader could ever wish to know concerning how the crews were instructed to handle the Tiger I under combat conditions The Tigerfibel contains detailed instructions on aiming firing ammunition and close combat There are extensive sections on maintenance driving radio operation and the essentials of commanding a Tiger I in combat This book contains the original German publication with a complete English translation new overview and introduction by Emmy Award winning historian Bob Carruthers Highly accessible this book is essential and rewarding reading for all readers interested in the history of the Tiger I
