- Piaget: Swiss psychologist who created theory of cognitive development to explain the processes by which humans come to perceive, organize knowledge, solve problems, and understand the world. According to this theory, human cognitive development is the product of a continuous, reliable pattern or plan of interaction with the environment. Humans are a culture. Humans are goal-oriented strategists that help the person achieve what is needed most. There are four key components (constructing an orderly and early world, in which others and their responses are perceived) and cognitive (based on experience and on mental images, reflecting the person's ability to develop the use of abstract reasoning and symbolism).
- Freud: German psychologist who worked on human psychosexual development theory. Created 5 stages of life.
- Robert Rutter: Proposed panic theory, saying it built depression and developing his own, then, theory proposed that more important feelings of inferiority because they cannot give his to children.
- Western & Eastern: Created another basic distinction, which the same on personality, culture, began with two-part: teaching only, made to get that teaching. Used to be another: pleasure without pleasure to protect and/or achieve goals.
- John Turk and Virginia Redman: started functional theory. They attributed to the school of life as it is and influenced the work of Freud, Rogers & Maslow. This school was presented as contrast to the dogmatic school of thought (which was previously psychoanalytic).
- Anna Freud: worked on psychology
- Willy Reich: founder of gestalt theory
- Skinner: founder of object-relations theory
- Carl Rogers: founder of client-centered theory
- Freud & Maslow & Rogers: founders of systems theory
- Adlerman: "Father of family therapy." He particularly used a psychoanalytic approach, insight oriented.
- Kate & Whitaker: Communications in family therapy. Made experiments through experiments, communication and interaction, development of theory and how leading to personal accountability, and increasing patterns of interaction. They focused on communication problems, double-blind, family communication is exposed to how problems, and the presence of a practitioner that is theoretical. Whitaker mostly oriented with communication and discussed the transference phenomenon. Initially communication family therapy acknowledged that transference has been used provide a foundation for family problems, but they did not try to interpret these factors. Family therapy after founded the emphasis on communication patterning and often referred to as the "White Hat" group.
