C. Muelbert, 2024-12-24 National and international agencies need assessments of change in ecosystems and their drivers in order to sustain natural systems to maintain the delivery of services and to meet the challenge for conserving Earth ecosystems in the long term In marine systems change may arise directly from human activities e g fisheries indirectly from local or global activities cascading effects through food webs from fisheries or changing environments from climate change and or ocean acidification or from naturally varying processes A particular challenge for managers is to identify how dangerous future climate change will be for ecosystems and their services and whether mitigation or adaptation may be needed in advance in order to achieve the conservation requirements For regions of international attention particularly those that have the attention of many management or policy oriented bodies a standardized process is needed to harmonize the scientific information on the status and trends in ecosystems used by the different bodies That process also needs to ensure the information is available in a timely manner For example assessments of change in habitats species and or food webs in the Southern Ocean are currently compiled separately for at least ten different international organizations or processes A Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean MEASO aims to harmonize that information for policy makers This assessment began with an international conference in April 2018 <http://www.measo2018.aq> where it was agreed to undertake the first MEASO over 2018 2019 with the view to provide the outcomes to relevant bodies such as the Scientific Committee for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources soon after Learner-Centered Teaching Activities for Environmental and Sustainability Studies Loren B. Byrne, 2016-03-21 Learner centered teaching is a pedagogical approach that emphasizes the roles of students as participants in and drivers of their own learning Learner centered teaching activities go beyond traditional lecturing by helping students construct their own understanding of information develop skills via hands on engagement and encourage personal reflection through metacognitive tasks In addition learner centered classroom approaches may challenge students preconceived notions and expand their thinking by confronting them with thought provoking statements tasks or scenarios that cause them to pay closer attention and cognitively see a topic from new perspectives Many types of pedagogy fall under the umbrella of learner centered teaching including laboratory work group discussions service and project based learning and student led research among others Unfortunately it is often not possible to use some of these valuable methods in all course situations given constraints of money space instructor expertise class meeting and instructor preparation time and the availability of prepared lesson plans and material Thus a major challenge for many instructors is how to integrate learner centered activities widely into their courses The broad goal of this volume is to help advance environmental education practices that help increase students environmental literacy Having a diverse collection of learner centered teaching activities is especially useful for helping students develop their environmental literacy because such approaches can help them connect more personally with the material thus increasing the chances for altering the affective and behavioral dimensions of their environmental literacy This volume differentiates itself from others by providing a unique and diverse collection of classroom activities that can help students develop their knowledge skills and personal views about many contemporary environmental and sustainability issues Methods and Interdisciplinarity

Roger Waldeck, 2019-12-05 Interdisciplinarity research results from a growing need for multi perspective methods and knowledge on complex and multifaceted objects of study It is not simply scientific research that involves several disciplines but ultimately the aim is confronting this knowledge and if possible articulating it coherently Using specific examples Methods and Interdisciplinarity categorizes the different modes of interdisciplinarity and discusses the mechanisms of hybridization between them On the one hand the book shows how the same issue can be treated according to various points of view from several disciplines which can give rise to complementary or even contradictory knowledge On the other hand it illustrates how methods from some disciplines make it possible to articulate the qualitative or quantitative approaches of others
