Chapter 2: Preparing for Pediatric Emergencies

1. How can health promotion and injury prevention topics be incorporated into the routine assessment and care of pediatric patients in the emergency department?
2. How do you incorporate patient- and family-centered care concepts into your care of pediatric patients?
3. Does your facility have a Pediatric Emergency Care Coordinator?
4. What opportunities exist at your facility to improve pediatric readiness and care for pediatric patients?
5. Does your facility receive children needing a higher level of care, or does your facility typically transfer children requiring a higher level of care? Are there formal transfer agreements in place? What are the responsibilities of the transferring and receiving facilities?
6. In most cases, consent for evaluation and treatment of minors must be obtained from the parent or legal guardian. In your jurisdiction, are there exceptions as to when a minor needs a parent/guardian to provide consent? What is your facility's policy for obtaining consent when a minor is unaccompanied by their legal guardian?

Chapter 3: Pediatric Differences

1. How can understanding the stages of development help you when caring for pediatric patients of varying ages?
 - a. Airway
 - i. Infants up to around 6 months prefer to breathe out of their noses. If nose gets obstructed, they are more likely to get hypoxic.
 - ii. Larger tongue relative to oral pharyngeal cavity, easier to obstruct
 - iii. Child has weak cartilage rings leading to airway collapse with neck flexion or increased inspiratory effort. (think of a straw)
 - iv. Large head can cause airway occlusion when supine. Placing pad under neck relieves this problem.
 - v. Short neck = slight flexion of neck can easily extubate.
 - b. Breathing
 - i. Retractions + respiratory distress

The workplace is changing drastically these days As a consequence of the Information and Communication Technology ICT revolution new economic activities emerge the production process changes people use different communication tools and organizational structures are adjusted All these changes relate to the heart of business and economics and there is no doubt that they will also influence education in these areas Of course ICT provides new technologies to facilitate learning but a changing workplace also requires a renewed focus within the curriculum of economics and business education If ICT is leading to profound change in the workplace is innovation then only a matter of introducing more technology in education Unfortunately this is not necessarily true The translation of changes in the workplace into an improved curriculum requires serious analysis of the essence of the changes at the work place and the way technology may enable student learning For example relevant knowledge is changing faster and faster Does this mean that we have to adopt the curriculum faster and faster Perhaps not as students will have a labor market career of 30 or 40 years Focusing on today's knowledge even if it is very up to date loses more and more value if the life cycle of knowledge becomes shorter Increased speed of change also implies a decrease in the value of knowing all these things
