Literacy and Mothering Robert A. LeVine, 2012-01-27 Women's schooling is strongly related to child survival and other outcomes beneficial to children throughout the developing world but the reasons behind these statistical connections have been unclear. In Literacy and Mothering the authors show for the first time how communicative change plays a key role. Girls acquire academic literacy skills even in low quality schools which enable them as mothers to understand public health messages in the mass media and to navigate bureaucratic health services effectively reducing risks to their children's health. With the acquisition of academic literacy their health literacy and health navigation skills are enhanced thereby reducing risks to children and altering interactions between mother and child. Assessments of these maternal skills in four diverse countries: Mexico, Nepal, Venezuela, and Zambia support this model and are presented in the book. Chapter 1 provides a brief history of mass schooling including the development of a bureaucratic Western form of schooling. Along with the bureaucratic organization of healthcare services and other institutions this form of mass schooling spread across the globe setting new standards for effective communication standards that are in effect taught in school. Chapter 2 reviews the demographic and epidemiological evidence concerning the effects of mothers' education on survival, health, and fertility. In this chapter the authors propose a model that shows how women's schooling together with urbanization and changes in income and social status reduce child mortality and improve health. In Chapter 3 the authors examine the concept of literacy and discuss how its meanings and measurements have been changed by educational research of the last few decades. Chapter 4 introduces the four country study of maternal literacy. Chapters 5, 6, and 7 present the findings focusing on academic literacy and its retention. Chapter 5 its impact on maternal health literacy and navigation skills. Chapter 6 and changes in mother-child interaction and child literacy skills. Chapter 7 Chapter 8 presents a new analysis of school experience, explores policy implications, and recommends further research.

Learning from Global Food and Nutrition Insecurity Rafael Perez-Escamilla, Amos Laar, Susan Vorkoper, 2024-11-06 As access to healthy, nutritious, and safe food becomes increasingly unreliable, especially among low income groups, research on food insecurity is of critical importance both domestically and abroad. Scientists around the world are leading the way in testing innovative public health and policy strategies to address the reasons behind this trend and develop policies and effective interventions and programs. Despite recognising the global impact of food and nutrition insecurity, efforts to address it are often siloed and fractured. Sharing research strategies and proven methods among researchers worldwide can help identify common ground and lessons learned for the adaptation and implementation of evidence-informed food and nutrition security interventions.

Understanding Language Choices Ken Decker, John Grummitt, 2017-05-26 Understanding Language Choices is an introductory textbook for anyone studying the motivations behind language use choices. It provides an introduction into the numerous factors both internal and external influencing such choices in a speech community: language attitudes, language learning, identity, the mobility of the community.

and much more The book also provides a foundation for the study of linguistic variation within a speech community as well as an introduction to methods of data collection when studying the outcomes of language use choices An important aspect of this book is its emphasis on a participatory approach to language choice research that empowers the speech community The final chapter discusses lifestyle concerns that researchers may encounter when conducting field studies in developing nations Written with the beginner in mind this textbook includes numerous examples and case studies from around the world to illustrate the realities of sociolinguistic field research A companion website keeps users of the book up to date with descriptions of the most current research methodologies Ken Decker received his M A in Linguistics from the University of Texas at Arlington in 1992 He brings to this book over 25 years experience in field research in the sociology of language and language development He has conducted sociolinguistic surveys in more than 35 languages in Asia and the Americas and served as consultant on surveys in Africa Australia Europe and the Pacific Ken is particularly interested in the role of language research in strategic language development John Grummitt received his M A in Applied Linguistics from the University of Leicester in 2002 drawing on his decade s experience as an academic writing tutor and trainer of teachers in ESL programs in Japan and South Korea His more recent survey work in Papua New Guinea has given him a perspective supplementary to Decker s on sociolinguistic fieldwork and language development
